1800 BILLS IN HOPPER WHEN END COMES

First Half Of Forty-sixth Legislative Session Is Briefest In History

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—With the biennial bill hopper running over and the members impatient to get back to their homes, the first half of the forty-sixth session of the California state Legislature came to an end today. Though the session has been the briefest in history, more measures were presented than two years ago, and what is in these bills even their own sponsors are not altogether sure. The work of sifting them out and beating them into acceptable new laws is the labor of the next session, which will begin Monday, February 24.

Reapportionment is still a "bleeding" issue, and will probably bleed to death, as has been the case in the two past sessions. The south is standing on the principle of law and will accept no compromise. The north is standing pat on the larger welfare of the state and, with a militant farm bloc to make the fight, has nothing to worry over as to the final outcome, in its opinion.

Of the 1800 or more bills presented, the largest single group is made up of insurance bills.

Los Angeles has been the most persistent community factor here during the first half of the session.

South's Demands

Determined to have reapportionment, a state prison in the south, an asylum for the insane, a separate state university, a state building and other institutions, if possible, the southerners have been extremely busy.

To further this program the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce has been sounding mem-

NOMINATIONS BY PEOPLE INCREASE

Residents Welcome Chance To Express Their Choice In Civic Affairs

From all walks of life are coming nomination blanks, naming new candidates for the councilmanic positions to be filled next April, or expressing their approval of the candidates already named by the people of Glendale through the columns of The Glendale Evening News. The list continues to grow, twenty-four names being added today, while several candidates have polled heavy votes within the last few hours.

The nomination blank, which appears daily on page one of The Glendale Evening News, is seized upon by the residents of Glendale as an opportunity to express their individual views and preferences, a method of procedure that could not otherwise be brought about in a municipal election, which is, or at least should be, strictly nonpartisan under the state election laws.

Praises News Policy

Elsewhere in The Glendale Evening News today appears the picture of Frank Rhode, 1004 Cornell drive, who has received more than the necessary fifty votes, thus his picture appears today. In connection with the picture is a brief biographic sketch of Mr. Rhode. Commenting upon the policy adopted by The Glendale Evening News in giving the residents of this city an opportunity to express their preference for councilmanic candidates, Mr. Rhode sent the following letter to A. T. Cowan, publisher of this paper:

"Will you kindly permit me, through the columns of your very fine newspaper, to express my gratitude to the many friends who placed my name in nomination for the City Council, using a ballot published in The News. I am thoroughly appreciative of the honor and will, if elected, strive to justify the confidence which has been placed in my ability.

"Let me furthermore, thank you personally for your stand on municipal political affairs and the means you have taken through your splendid paper of truly informing the voters of the qualifications and records of Councilmanic timber. May I hope that The News will be behind me in my race for the place, otherwise I fear I will not win."

Two Withdraw

The name of Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward, 307 North Kenwood road, is withdrawn from the people's list of candidates today at the request of Mrs. Hayward.

"I want to take this opportunity to thank the persons who suggested my name," Mrs. Hayward said, "but I find it would be impossible for me to serve the city on the City Council. Please withdraw my name from the list."

RADIO FUND TOTAL STEADILY GROWING

Glendale Citizens Show They Appreciate Work of Fire Department; Small Boy Gives His Mite To Good Cause

The subscription list for the firemen's radio continues to grow. More names appear on the list published today, enumerating contributions made since the first list was published yesterday, together with the name of the first donors. Contributors are expressing their appreciation to The Glendale Evening News for starting the fund, and all announce they are glad to help.

"One of the happiest moments of my life," was the comment of S. D. Goldsmith, proprietor of the Coast to Coast Army store, Harvard street and Brand boulevard, as he walked into the office of The Glendale Evening News and laid down a check for $5. "I am, indeed, happy to contribute to such a worthy cause. I watched the firemen the other night fighting that stubborn blaze in the shoe store on South Brand boulevard, and when I noticed them going into that building, unafraid and unhesitatingly, not knowing what dangers they might meet up with, I tell you it was a sight that deserved the highest praise."

Boy Gives His Bit

While the business men and women are writing their checks for larger amounts, the fire fighters have not been overlooked by a youth who wanted to "do his bit." His donation was small, but it came from the heart, and meant as much to him, if not more, than the larger donations meant to others.

The sum was only a dime, but it represented thousands of dollars' worth of spirit. The lad probably knew the tedious hours of waiting with nothing to do. Perhaps he had stood in front of a store and heard programs as they were broadcast from some distant station. Perhaps he has often wished that some day he would be the proud possessor of a radio receiving set.

He wanted to help. He saw the chance to make some one else happy, so, with the satisfaction that comes only with service well rendered, the lad walked into the office of The Glendale Evening News, at 139 South Brand boulevard, and as he laid his dime on the counter, said:

"Can I help to buy a radio set for the firemen? It isn't much, but it might help."

Men and women of Glendale, here is a challenge, hurled by the little lad and his lonely dime. He gave all he could to make some one else happy. What are you going to give?

The complete list of those who have donated toward a radio set for the firemen, and the amount each has given follows:

A. T. Cowan	$10.00
Mattison B. Jones	10.00
Coast to Coast Army Store	5.00

DO YOUR BIT FOR GLENDALE FIREMEN

Radio Set Will Be Welcomed by Boys on Duty Long Hours; Hurry and Make Subscription To Their Fund

Subscription To Radio Fund For Fire Department Employes

I will give the sum of $..... to the fund being raised through The Glendale Evening News for the purpose of buying a radio outfit for the employes of the Glendale fire department.

NAME .....

ADDRESS .....

Tear out and mail to The Glendale Evening News, 139 South Brand, Glendale.

During the long hours of the night, while sitting in their quarters, waiting for the sound of the alarm that will send them speeding through the streets of Glendale to the scene of a conflagration, the fire-fighters of Glendale find time hanging heavily on their hands.

They cannot leave the fire stations while on duty, to seek amusement and diversion at moving picture theatres, or elsewhere. Have you ever tried sitting down with nothing to do, just wait, wait, wait? If you have, you will realize the merits of the proposition to provide the firemen with a radio receiving set.

Citizens Responding

The idea originated with a reader of The Glendale Evening News, who has asked that his name be withheld, and an appeal is being made through The Glendale Evening News for funds to purchase a radio set.

Since the announcement of the fund was made, many residents of the city have responded nobly. Some have called at the office of The Glendale Evening News, the big three-story building at 139 South Brand boulevard, and left their contributions. Others have made use of the coupon that appears daily on page one, and sent in their checks.

Here is an opportunity for Glendalians to pay tribute to the men who protect lives and property, face danger without a fear.

All right, folks, now you know the plan. Let's subscribe and see to it that the fire department gets a good radio outfit.

A subscription list is at the business office of The Glendale Evening News, 139 South Brand.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 24.—The bright red star of the morning sky was blotted out for two full minutes today at 9:12 a. m. in a total eclipse of the sun by the moon.

As the hundred mile wide shadow of the moon swept over New Haven on its way to the Atlantic ocean from Duluth, Minn., this city craned its neck in awe while a battalion of scientists glued unblinking eyes to telescopes and cameras to record the phenomena—the first total eclipse in northeastern America since 1806.

Aided by perfect weather conditions plus a ground blanket of snow, the main glories of the eclipse were unfolded to the naked eye. The sun's corona, the shadow bands, gleaming stars and flaming streamers, were observed by millions in the vicinity.

Great Shadow Comes

The famous shadow bands began to play over the sides of buildings a few minutes before the total eclipse. At 9:10 the ominous great shadow of the moon appeared from the east and the horizon dropped away, the great shadow rushed toward New Haven at the terrific speed of a mile a second. The millions of watching humanity forgot to breathe.

Professor Ernest U. Brown, in charge of observations at Yale university, showed "stations" to the gathered scientists. Professor J. A. Miller of Swarthmore college repeated the order to his corps.

Women Present

While a freezing wind moaned through the instruments set up on a snow-clad field, the scientists took their allotted places. Two women and a 13-year-old boy were

CHURCH ROW OVER RIGHT POLICIES

Exclusivists And Inclusivists Battle On Personnel Of Congregations

By O. L. SCOTT

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

CHICAGO, Jan. 24.—The controversy between fundamenttalists and modernists in the church is about to run into competition, for the spotlight of public attention, with a new fight between the "exclusivists" and the "inclusivists."

What started out as a little family row within the congregation of the aristocratic New England congregational church here, over a matter of internal church policy, has blossomed into a first class dispute that may easily dedevelop into everything that the fundamentalist-modernist controversy developed into, and then some.

The issue no longer is "what's taught," but rather "who is taught it." Exclusivists contend that the select few who maintain the church by their contributions and who have built their exclusive little society about it should be undisturbed in their worship by outsiders. Inclusivists maintain that the church should appeal to all classes.

Inclusivists Leader

The Rev. Thornton Anthony Mills, pastor of the New England Congregational church, is leader of the inclusivists, and it looks now as though his policy were either going to make him or break him with his congregation.

The Rev. Mr. Mills has not minced matters in carrying his inclusivist policy into effect. He now has Dr. Ben Reitman, president of the Chicago Hobo college, as a member of the congregation, and a goodly number of Dr. Reitman's faithful followers have become regular attendants of the New England congregation. So have the Bohemians of the near North Side. Even I. W. W.'s and "heds" have put in their appearance among the strictly staid church members, who have tried to stay the advance of industrialism into their district.

"Times have changed on the North Side," Mr. Mills said today. "Our membership from the older and more conservative families is limited and the advance of industry has brought the church into the center of tthe 'art colony' and 'hobohemia.' If the church is to function it must minister to the spiritual needs of this element.

Streets Add Customers

"I have brought in the men and the women from the streets and tried to show those who are down and out, a better road to follow. I have tried to show the agitators a new viewpoint. On Defense Day last September, when radicals gathered to wave the 'red' flag, I invited them into the church and told them what it was to be an American, taking the edge off their demonstration.

"A clash over the issue raised by this policy, probably was inevitable. At any rate it has arisen."

The type of persons the Rev. Mills is finding to bring under Christian influence in carrying out his inclusivist policy, may be imagined from the fact that the little church faces "bughouse square," the meeting place of soap box orators, and is in the shadow of the Dill Pickle club, a hotbed of radicalism and new thought.

The church council only gets more rolled up over each time it meets to seek some kind of settlement of the row. Now the congregation itself is about to decide matters, with the result in doubt.

VIEWS EXPRESSED BY J. H. RANDALL

Withdraws All Protests In Regard to Improvement Of Lake District

Editor, The Evening News:—In your issue of January 22, 1925, you carried an article pertaining to forty protestants against improvement of certain streets in the Lake street district, the impression of which I wish to correct at once.

At the time I appeared before the City Council of the city of Glendale it was my understanding that the forty protestants were directly interested in the improvements pending before the City Council. Believing this, I made certain statements to the council which were referred to in your article that I have since discovered were not correct, were erroneous and misleading, and, naturally, upon discovering the same, I wish to retract them promptly.

For instance, the great number of the forty people signing letters of protest are not on the streets affected by the improvement contemplated and, therefore, should not be heard in the matter.

Withdraws Protest

I further find, upon more careful analysis of the situation, that there is no unfair dealing in the district to my knowledge, and that the work of the North Western Avenue Improvement association is of a very commendable nature. Being president of the Greater Northwestern Improvement association, it has always been my idea to co-operate with the city of Glendale and to comply with the just wishes of the majority of people affected in any district that I have had any connections with heretofore, and, having been accurately informed in the matter, I wish to withdraw and do hereby withdraw from any further protest or participation in the protest regarding the matters now pending before the City Council with respect to the improvement of said district.

It will be my desire to assist in any worthy developing campaign that is inaugurated in the city of Glendale. The impression produced by the article referred to would give the public the impression that the majority present were opposed to the improvement now pending in the district, but a vote taken indicated different, and I do not believe that it will be necessary to have police protection, as I believe that the people in our district are good, law-abiding, honest people.

Again I wish to say that I am personally behind all worthy improvements in the city of Glendale, and it is my honest desire to foster and co-operate with those working towards the betterment of this "Fastest Growing city in America," and I believe in the sincerity of the promoters of the North Western Avenue Improvement association as they are carrying on the work that I have been engaged in for the past five years.

ARMORY SITE MAY BE GRIFFITH PARK

Lawmakers Get Bill Asking For Appropriation for Building There

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—Griffith park, separating Hollywood from Glendale, will be the site for the proposed new armory building for the national guard air service unit with headquarters at the municipal aviation field in Griffith park, if Assemblyman Sidney T. Graves, L. A., gets through his bill introduced today, asking for $10,000 for the proposed armory.

This bill is of direct interest to Glendale because of the close proximity of Griffith park to Glendale. County, state or national work in Griffith park means Glendale would be directly affected.

Two resolutions urging early and amicable settlement of controversy between University of Southern California and University of California and Stanford, before the Legislature today, one introduced by Senator Victor J. Caneia, San Francisco, while Assemblyman A. C. Finney, Brawley, introduced more pertinent resolution in Tower House.

Assemblyman Frank C. Weller of Glendale introduced a bill creating a commission of fifteen including the governor, lieutenant-governor and speaker of the Assembly, to arrange and carry out a program for the celebration of the bicentennial anniversary of George Washington's birth in 1932. Weller introduced a bill yesterday re-establishing Sonoma farm home for delinquent women at the request of the California Federation of Women's clubs.

SISTER HEARS ADDRESS IN GEORGIA

Relatives of Bert Woodard Listen To Speech On Local Radio Bill

Replies to the invitation of Bert P. Woodard over the radio a week ago for fans to write the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, are still piling up at chamber headquarters. Over 100 letters have been received, many of them from great distances.

One letter from Athens, Ga., was from Mr. Woodard's mother and sister. Despite static caused by rain and bad weather, Mr. Woodard's sister, Mrs. Charles H. Harms, said she was able to distinguish her brother's voice, and heard his speech very clearly. The Glendale message was heard in the Georgia city at 12:45 o'clock, eastern time.

Parents of Milford Jackson, one of the artists on the program, listened in from Danville, Ill. The talk of Mr. Woodard, the Hawaiian music by the Lane Trio and the group of songs by their son, all came in very clearly, Mr. Jackson's letter, received today, stated.

Heard In Colorado

From Leonard, Colo., John Mohr, ranch owner and logger, wrote the following:

"While I was listening in on KFI last night, I heard one of your speakers telling of Glendale. It got to thinking of the days when I roamed over the state of California and must now confess that I made a fool of myself when I left. Had I taken the advice of some people I would now perhaps be in Glendale or some place near to it. Instead I am here wading in snow in the woods so that we may have logs to saw when the roads are open.

"Again I want to say that I made an awful sad mistake when I left California and when I get a chance, I will sure sell out here and come back again—just put that under your hat."

This was read before the council and formally accepted, and will go before the student body next week for ratification.

Alehandro Madrid, president, expressed his appreciation of the co-operation of the council and advisory board, and Principal Norman Whytock spoke, commending the president on the success of his administration and commending the committee on the creditable results of their efforts in drafting the new constitution. For Council

FRANK RHODE, the second to receive more than fifty nominations in The Glendale Evening News' nominations for City Council campaign, now being conducted. Who's next?

When The Glendale Evening News announced that it would receive nominations for city councilmen, it was stated that all who received fifty or more nominations would have their pictures published, also a brief biography. It happens that Frank Rhode is the second proposed candidate to receive fifty or more nominations, so his picture appears above and following is a brief story about him.

Frank Rhode, 1004 Cornell drive, is a well-known Glendale builder who has, since coming here four years ago, taken an active part in many civic affairs.

He was born in Detroit, Mich., March 3, 1887, and received his education in the grammar and high schools of Michigan, becoming interested in the building business at an early age. During most of his life Mr. Rhode has been a builder, first in Detroit, later in Los Angeles, and now in Glendale, which he declares is the best city of all.

Mr. Rhode, with his wife, has wintered in Southern California since 1910. In 1919 they came here to stay, removing from Los Angeles to Glendale four years ago. Many business structures and a large number of residences have been financed and built under the management of Mr. Rhode here.

Figures in Politics

Before coming to California, Mr. Rhode was prominent in political circles in and around Detroit. Although he never ran for an office, he figured in a number of campaigns in Michigan, and is well versed in political affairs. He is now a heavy property owner in Glendale, having large holdings in all four corners of the city. With these many interests he has been active in many projects for the development of Glendale.

"If I am elected to the City Council, I will vow to fulfill my duties 100 per cent and can assure my friends a peppy administration," Mr. Rhode said, when informed that his name had been placed on the special Evening News' ballot by more than fifty citizens of this city.

Mr. Rhode is a member of the Masonic order in Michigan and also an Odd Fellow.

Intermediate School Plans for Graduation

Commencement exercises of the Glendale Intermediate school of which Norman R. Whytock is principal, will be held Saturday night, January 31, at 8 o'clock. Dr. J. Harold Williams, of the University of California, Southern Branch, will deliver the address and the diplomas will be presented by Eugene H. Learned, member of the Board of Education. Sixty-seven students will be graduated.

OFFER VOIDED FOR USE OF HOSPITAL

Glendale Sanitarium Board Decides Not to Turn Building to U. S.

The offer made to the United States government for leasing the Glendale hospital on Wilson avenue at Jackson street as a veterans' bureau unit has been withdrawn. This action was taken yesterday at a meeting of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital board of trustees, held at the Glendale sanitarium, 1509 East Wilson avenue. The meeting was presided over by Elder O. O. Bernstein, vice-president of the board, in the absence of Elder J. L. McElhany, prseident, who is a patient at the Glendale hospital, recuperating from an operation for appendicitis.

The decision to withdraw the offer to the government was made chiefly because of the crowded condition of the Glendale sanitarium, where every one of the 132 patients' rooms now is occupied, and in many cases two patients are occupying a single room. Inasmuch as the Glendale hospital contains thirty-two patients' rooms, it was felt by the board that retention of this institution as a supplementary unit would do much to relieve the congestion.

Same Supervision

Dr. A. W. Truman, medical superintendent of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, will have supervision over the Glendale hospital, as in the past, and E. G. Fulton, business manager, will continue to supervise the business affairs of both units, it was decided. Dr. Clemen Hamer will continue in charge at the Glendale hospital, under Dr. Truman.

Negotiations with the government, now broken off, had been conducted through the Guy M. Rush Co. of Los Angeles, real estate brokers. It had been the plan of the government, had it obtained a lease on the Glendale hospital, to operate it in connection with the great institution now being erected near San Fernando for the Veterans' bureau.

Other temporary officers are L. Gabage, treasurer; G. Watson, secretary, and L. Lassin, business agent.

Daily Greeting to News Readers

LIFE IS BEAUTIFUL—
To the man who insists upon loving his work.
To the actor who plays for the sake of his message.
To the old man who has kept his song in his heart.
To anyone who lives it for one whom he loves.
To the woman who puts her trust in her womanliness.
If we keep our thoughts off the rewards and on the opportunities.

INTERESTING INVENTIONS

We are talking, working and hoping for universal and everlasting peace, but our scientists, as well as those of other countries, are going ahead with experiments and inventions of all kinds to be used "in wartime." It is discouraging to read of the perfection of all kinds of destructive agencies, but a late invention is along a different line from poisonous gases, death rays and the like, and since it may be of use in time of peace as well as war is worthy of interest.

Alfred McEwen has perfected an invention with which he claims he can engrave eighty complete copies of the Bible in the space of one square inch. It has been considered quite a feat to write the Lord's prayer on a dime, but McEwen, with his invention, can write this prayer seventy-eight times in the 10,000th part of a square inch. It will be seen that this device applied to the transmission of documents in time of war would be invaluable. A messenger could carry communications of unlimited length engraved on the surface of a button or concealed under the nose-piece of his glasses. It would be most difficult for the enemy to find the message, since a very lengthy communication could be carried in the space the size of the head of a pin. It would seem that this invention might be put to good use in preserving records of various kinds by engraving them on steel. They would occupy a minimum of space in vaults or filing cases and would be indestructible.

Another achievement that marks peace-time progress is being perfected by two professors at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who have succeeded in measuring intervals of time down to one-billionth of a second. Laymen invariably question the value of such a discovery. Its worth is explained in this way:

The acceleration of gravity has always been considered as absolutely the same for all materials. If, when two bodies of different materials are dropped, they do not hit the earth exactly at the same instant, a difference of time incredibly small can be measured by this apparatus. If it should develop that the force of gravity varies with different substances, the fact would throw tremendous light upon conditions prevailing within the earth and prove of benefit in the study of earthquakes and volcanoes. There are a number of other phenomena which could be observed by this apparatus and which would throw considerable light on scientific investigations, it is said.

SIMPLE JOYS THROUGH SPECTACLES

The man who always puts on his spectacles when eating cherries that the fruit may look larger and more tempting is not so stupid as he may seem. It is the one who gets the most out of simple pleasures to whom life is kindest. It is the sensible people who put on spectacles, and rose-colored ones at that, when circumstances prevent them from indulging in any but the simplest forms of amusement.

One trouble with the world is that so many are not content with pleasures that are harmless and ennobling and so indulge in those forms of entertainment that call for excitement, for novelty and variety and that lead to excess. Be they ever so able financially to indulge themselves, these people are not happy, for they have outgrown their taste for real pleasures and these other makeshifts fail to satisfy. The constant craving for a thrill is never satisfied but for a moment, and then the desire is for a still more thrilling thrill.

The great quest of humanity is for happiness and contentment. How much greater satisfaction in life for the one who can enjoy pleasures that are simple and harmless than for those who are constantly searching for novelty in entertainment. An English statesman says that we live more in a pleasure-seeking than a pleasure-finding age.

The homely philosophy of James Whitcomb Riley, when applied to life, makes for happiness:

"It hain't no use to grumble and complain;
It's jest as cheap and easy to rejoice—
When God sorts out the weather and sends rain,
W'y, rain's my choice."

VANDERLIP SUIT SETTLED

The damage suit brought by Roy D. Moore and L. H. Brush, publishers of the Marion, Ohio, Star, against Frank A. Vanderlip, New York financier, has been settled out of court. Vanderlip is alleged to have stated in a public address that Moore and Brush paid the late President Harding too much for the paper, intimating that in this way the president received money for some unnamed act. The charge came at a time when the country was aroused over the Teapot Dome scandal.

Mrs. Vanderlip now retracts her husband's charge, he being too ill to do so himself, it is said. According to Mrs. Vanderlip, "President Harding was most scrupulous as to the propriety of the negotiations." The amount of the settlement was not made public.

This was a libel suit in which the entire country was interested. A slanderous rumor against a dead president should concern every member of his party, at least. Settling the matter out of court does not remove the stigma from the name of President Harding as would have been the case if Vanderlip had made his retraction in person and in court.

IGNORANCE AND FEAR

There is a close relationship between ignorance and fear. Not so long ago natural phenomena, such as thunder and lightning, earthquakes and volcanoes, were thought to be manifestations of anger on the part of the Deity. How cleverly Mark Twain, in his story, "A Connecticut Yankee at King Arthur's Court," used the incident of the eclipse of the sun to instill fear in the mob.

When the total eclipse of the sun took place a year and a half ago, astronomers came to this section of the country to view the eclipse, with the hope of gaining new astronomical knowledge. And we, far from fearing the manifestation, were greatly interested in it. On the 24th of this month other sections of the country will have the opportunity of experiencing a total eclipse of the sun and much interest is being taken in the event. Scientists will ascend above the smoke and fog and clouds in the giant dirigible, the Los Angeles, to study the phenomenon. If "love casteth out fear," so does knowledge.

A child who has normal "nerves" should not be trained by a teacher whose "nerves" are abnormal.

Speaking of commercialism; growing the poppy plant to get opium to wreck lives to make money is s-o-m-e business.

HIS DAILY DOZEN!

Very Nearly

By DR. FRANK CRANE

I recently ran across the story of Ned Nearly. It goes like this:

One morning when he was a very little boy his father and mother, and all his brothers and sisters, were surprised to find that he did not come down to breakfast. His mother went up to tap on his bedroom door.

"Come, Ned," said she, "aren't you dressed yet?"

"Yes, Mother, very nearly," he piped, although as a matter of fact he was still in bed.

When at last he came down to breakfast, it was nearly over and he had to go without, very nearly.

When he went to school and found himself among a lot of good boys or very nearly good boys, he never learned to read well, to write properly, nor to calculate correctly, though he very nearly did all these things.

His father blamed him, his mother was disappointed in him and his brothers and sisters said he was silly.

"What's the trouble?" asked Ned. "If I don't read, write and count very well, I do so very nearly."

When his school days were over and he went to work he applied at one place for a job, but was late for his appointment, though he was very nearly on time. He lost the job. He tried for another place and very nearly got it, but his writing was not quite good enough.

Thus, day after day, week after week and year after year, he did very nearly well, but always fell a little short.

This road of very nearly leads to nowhere and one finds out, after awhile, that people do not want things very nearly done well enough, or they very nearly find it out.

After a while he became an old man and was buried, and a tombstone was set up over him with the words, "Here lies the body of Ned Nearly, not quite."

Horoscope

Although Mercury is in benefic aspect today, according to astrology, the influences are uncertain and not altogether good, for Uranus and Saturn are adverse.

This is held as a most auspicious rule under which to pay bills of every sort and whatever has to do with the keeping of accounts is well directed.

There is a good sign for whatever depends on orderly, systematic procedure. It is a lucky day for clearing up all business affairs long neglected.

Advertising again is subject to the best possible direction of the stars. Publishers will reap large profits in the coming year, which will incline persons of every class to read newspapers and magazines.

Uranus is in a place supposed to stimulate reflection and serious study, but wrong ideas will be easily absorbed.

Public opinion will be swayed in contrary directions as the year progresses, political sentiments being changeable and unstable.

This is not a favorable rule under which to make new acquaintances of opposite sex, for deception is supposed to be very easy while this configuration prevails.

Migration to the south is foretold for adventurous persons who will seek new fields of work in the spring.

This is not a fortunate sway for aged persons who may be dictatorial and difficult to please.

A movement to encourage the return to the farm is presaged by the stars, and women will be prominent in it.

Persons whose birthdate it is should not speculate in the coming year, which will be luckier for the stay-at-home than for the wanderer.

Children born on this day may be restless and inclined to be extravagant, but these subjects of Aquarius usually have the talents that assure them plenty of money at all times.

ORNATE CARDS USED

Less than 20 years ago it was a fad in France to use playing cardes across which a signature was scrawled, for visiting cards. Later cards engraved with pictures took their place and then came the elegant flourishing of Spencerian penmanship, since which time the neatly engraved card of today, with little or nothing on it but the name, has become firmly implanted in the conventions of the times.

The Best of Advice

By CLARK KINNARD

How many millions of people come into, and go out of the world, ignorant of themselves, and of the world they have lived in.

If we went to Windsor Castle or Versailles palace it would be strange not to observe and remember the situation, the building, the gardens, fountains, and the other things that make up the beauty and pleasure of such places.

And yet few people know themselves; not even their own bodies, the houses of their minds, the most curious structure of the world; a living walking tabernacle. Nor do they know the world of which it was made, and out of which it is fed.

William Penn opined that the world is certainly a great and stately volume of natural things; and may not be improperly styled the hieroglyphics of a better.

"But, alas! how very few leaves of it do we seriously turn over! This ought to be the subject of the education of our youth, who, at twenty, when they should be fit for business, know little or nothing of it."

Knowledge is the Treasure, but Judgment the Treasurer of a Wise Man, Penn said. (The capitals are his).

"He that has more Knowledge than Judgment, is made for another Man's use more than this own.

"It cannot be a good Constitution, where the Appetite is great and the Digestion is weak.

"There are some men like Dictionaries; to be looked into upon occasions, but have no Connection, and are little entertaining.

"Less Knowledge than Judgment will always have the advantage upon the Injudicious knowing Man.

"A Wise Man makes what he learns his own, 'tother shows he's but a Copy, or a Collection at most."

Today's Poem

THE IVY GREEN

Oh, a dainty plant is the Ivy green,
That creepeth o'er ruins old!
Of right choice food are his meals, I ween,
In his cell so lone and cold.
The walls must be crumbled, the stones decay'd,
To pleasure his dainty whim;
And the mouldering dust that years have made
Is a merry meal for him.
Creeping where no life is seen,
A rare old plant is the Ivy green.

Fast he stealeth on, though he wears no wings,
And a staunch old heart has he!
How closely he twineth, how tight he clings
To his friend, the huge oak tree!
And slyly he traileth along the ground,
And his leaves he gently waves,
And he joyously twines and hugs around
The rich mould of dead men's graves.
Creeping where no life is seen,
A rare old plant is the Ivy green.

Whole ages have fled and their works decayed,
And nations scatter'd been,
But the stout old Ivy shall never fade
From its hale and hearty green.
The brave old plant in its lonely days
Shall fatten upon the past;
For the stateliest building that man can raise
Is the Ivy's food at last.
Creeping where no life is seen,
A rare old plant is the Ivy green.
—Charles Dickens.

PLAN BILL TO GIVE STATE PUBLICITY

Realtors Seek Appropriation Of $20,000 Annually to Finance Pamphlets

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—California would get proper publicity of its potential real estate values, its present resources and its unprecedented growth, under a plan launched by the Sacramento Realty board.

Appropriations of tentatively $20,000 annually will be asked in the bill to finance the publication by the state real estate commissioner, Edwin T. Keiser, of authoritative pamphlets on the resources of California. This money would come from excess funds of the real estate department representing license fees paid by brokers all over the state.

It was pointed out by Chris Jones, vice-president of the California Real Estate association, and member of the Sacramento board, which is sponsoring the measure, that present literature being sent in response to inquiries dates back as far as 1916. The last report of the real estate commissioner is dated 1921 and purely statistical. Budget slashes two years ago made it impossible for him to issue a report for the last biennium, Jones stated.

The Sacramento board's resolution is being forwarded to the boards of the California Real Estate association, and all are asked to get behind the measure to give authenticity to publicity being purveyed in the middle west and east. As was pointed out by various speakers, "people believe that which goes out under the seal of the state."

Commissioner Keiser has told the writer he favors such a move for giving publicity, and he would be glad to have the authority to certify the accuracy of statements by land agents and subdividers.

Real estate brokers who are members of the Legislature are keeping in close touch with the legislative situation, and they are going to support the publicity measure, it was promised by those present at the luncheon, including Assemblyman A. E. Brock of Redlands, F. E. Dayton of Salinas, Fred B. Noyes of Yuba City and Howard W. Davis of Los Angeles.

Sees Largest Steel Plants In California

DEL MONTE, Jan. 24.—California holds the possibility of becoming one of the country's greatest steel producing states, according to speakers at a meeting of 150 representatives of the steel industry.

Competition is expected from the Ruhr district, but California will meet it through co-operation of the steel mills, said Maynard McFie, chairman of the meeting. Frederick J. Koster, San Francisco, declared organization of the steel industry is California's greatest opportunity since construction of the Panama canal.

Textile Mills Operating Under New Wage Rate

BOSTON, Jan. 24.—Practically all the textile mills of New England now are on a new wage basis as a result of downward revisions approximating 10 per cent on the average. Mill operations are increasing and plants now are working at a higher rate than any time since last June.

Sheep Wintering Under First Class Conditions

FORT WORTH, Jan. 24.—Sheep are going through the winter in first class condition, Sutton county ranchers have disposed of their 1925 long clip in advance for 60 cents a pound. A high percentage lamb crop is predicted for March and April.

Chicagoan Held In L. A. On Bankruptcy Charge

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24.—Sam E. Elkins, under federal indictment with several other men in Chicago on charges of conspiring to violate the national bankruptcy act, was ordered held under $10,000 bond for removal to Chicago.

ACHIEVEMENTS OF BOARDS OUTLINED

Realtors' Activities In 1924 Are Told In Statement By H. U. Nelson

Outstanding accomplishments of realtors of the United States and Canada during the year 1924 in setting up standards in business methods and business conduct have just been summarized in a statement made in the current issue of the National Real Estate Journal by H. U. Nelson, executive secretary of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

Legal establishment of the right of the National Association of Real Estate Boards to the exclusive use of the term realtor and notable country-wide advance in public recognition that the term means membership in a constituent local real estate board are placed first on the list of the year's accomplishments.

The association's established trade right to the use of the term, coined to denote its members, has been upheld during the year in three court decisions. Injunctions against use of the term by non-members in their signs and advertising were granted by the circuit court of the city of Norfolk, Virginia, on June 16, by the district court of Weber county, Utah, on July 2, and by the circuit court of Wayne county, Michigan, November 8. Four suits asking for similar injunctions are now pending in St. Louis, Detroit, Ogden and Breward county, Florida.

Register Emblem

In more than fifty other cases during the year, persons misappropriating the designation realtor have quit such use on formal request of the national association and its local member boards without court action.

Registration of the emblem of the association as its trade mark has been secured during the year in thirty-eight states and is now being carried out in five other states and in the United States Patent Office.

Other principal lines of advancement toward assembling the transmissible body of specialized knowledge called for in the business of real estate and the development of standards of service are summarized as follows:

Revise Ethic Code

Revisions of the code of ethics adopted by the National Association of Real Estate Boards, and growing activity on the part of member boards in their enforcement of the code.

Development of the specialized divisions of the national association into practical research organizations on a large scale More than 400 of the ablest men in such specialized branches as real estate finance(subdivision development and industrial property development are members of committees through which this intensive study of business meth ods and problems is being carried on.

Remarkable advance in the matter of real estate education, now being made available through vocational courses given under the auspices of real estate boards in 128 cities of the United States and Canada and through courses offered in thirty-seven colleges and universities.

Found Institution

The founding of the American Real Estate institute, Chicago, to conduct home study courses in real estate practice under the direction of the national association where direct class instruction is not available.

Increase in the number of real estate boards having educational requirements for board membership, and in the number of states requiring educational qualifications for applicants for a real estate broker's license.

Establishment of intercommunication between state real estate associations through a national board of presidents and secretaries of state associations, which became this year a going concern.

Strengthen Boards

Provision for interstate exchange of experience in the administration of license laws through definite setting up of a national association of real estate license law officials.

Strengthening of local real estate board organization through an extension department developed within the National Association of Real Estate Boards in continuing personal contact with them.

Increase in availability of facts in regard to real estate organization and method through the establishment of a library of such facts at headquarters of the national association, Chicago, and through the publications of the association.

GAS PRICE BOOST

How To Invest Your Money

Twelve 'Danger Signs' Outlined

Told By Andrew W. Mellon

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Twelve "danger signs" for the guidance of investers have been set up by Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury.

If you want to invest your savings SAFELY, memorize these twelve rules, in which Mr. Mellon summarizes his vast knowledge of investments:

"1—Mining stock. The best looking mine in the world may prove a white elephant. Mining is a very expensive undertaking, and the risks are unusually great. There are many good mining investments, but this branch of the investment market is generally not for those who depend upon a salary.

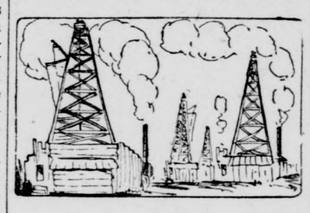
"2—Oil stock. Drilling for oil is costly. The hazards are great.



Oil investments are speculative and in a class with mining investments.

"3—In the wake of every important discovery or invention there comes a host of schemes—airplanes, radio, wireless. The promoters of these may have only the best intentions, but frequently their enthusiasm is about all they have to sell. Look before you leap.

"4—Investment in real estate in some distant place is sometimes as dangerous as mining stock. People have been known to buy swamps advertised as 'seashore frontage.' Know what you are buying before you invest.

"5 — 'Land development' schemes frequently do not pan out. At best it is a long time before any money comes in from sales. Investment in new companies that are going to 'sell by mail' should generally be avoided.

"6—Patent rights and processes distribution. It is rarely the patentee who makes the money.

"7 — 'New manufacturing' methods should always be closely checked and investigated.

"8—An investment requiring a quick decision is often a fake. If there isn't sufficient time to 'sleep over it,' something probably is wrong.

"9—'Special inducements' in cash discounts or stock bonuses urging you to be one of the first to invest are suspicious symptoms.

"10—'Tips' alleged to land you 'on the ground floor' are rarely to be taken. Those who are on the ground floor will monopolize the opportunity.

"11—Playing the stock market on the margin and all other forms of speculation are decidedly not for the small investor. Beware of the 'bucketshop.'

"12—Stock in 'mail order' companies being organized with promises based on what others have done seldom turns out well."

State's Property Law Decision Is Expected

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The long-awaited treasury decision on the California community property tax law, involving nearly $100,000,000 is expected within the next twenty-four hours, it was learned today.

MINE PRODUCTION

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Jan. 24.—The iron ore mined in Missouri in the last year totalled 85,000 tons, against 30,150 tons as compared with a year ago. The St. Louis Forgings Co. has bought the Valley Forgings Co., the East St. Louis subsidiary of the Laclede Steel Co.

EGGS BRINGING $1

FORT WORTH, Tex., Jan. 24.—Eggs went to $1 a dozen in some Texas towns last week. Scarcity and high prices prevail throughout the entire southwest.

Lawmakers Hear of Golden Gate Bridge

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—J. B. Strauss, engineer for the proposed Golden Gate bridge, spoke before the Legislature at a joint session held in the Assembly. His topic was the proposed bridge, the details of which were still unfamiliar to most of the members. In the Senate the bridge came up for quite a debate when Senator William R. Sharkey presented a resolution expressing the thanks of the Senate to the war department for its approval of the subject. It was passed unanimously.

GROUND CROPS FOR STATE SURPRISE

Despite Hoof, Mouth Disease 1924 Yield Shows Up Big On Average

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—More or less gloomy prospects for agriculture indicated by early summer reports in 1924 were completely discounted by production and valuation totals of crops for the year according to the annual crop report published today by E. W. Kaufman, federal and state agricultural statistician.

Total production of field and fruit crops is 9,853,145 tons or 17 per cent less than in 1923, but total value of the diminished production is less than 1 per cent below the value of the 1923 crop. Returns from agriculture in 1924 were $368,427,000 as compared with $370,398,000 for the preceding year, due to increased prices for farm products. In this summary, says Kaufman, only field and fruit crops are included. No mention is made of vegetable, animals and animal products.

Total acreage of field crops harvested was only 75.3 per cent of the 1923 area. Acreage of tree fruits, nuts and vineyards of bearing age for 1924 was 8 per cent greater than in 1923.

Acreage, production and value of main field and fruit crops in 1924 was as follows:

Field crops—Acreage, 3,953,000; production (tons), 6,853,145; average value per ton, $27.83; farm value, December 1, $190,716,000.

Fruit crops—Production (tons), 3,015,580; average value per ton, $58.93; farm value, December 1, $177,711,000.

Ranking of Crops

Ranking of 16 principal crops in California for 1924 follows: Hay (tame), $104,659,000; oranges, $46,200,000; Wine grapes, $22,050,000; table grapes, $18,240,000; lemons,

40-Mile Road Planned Down South Valley

SANTA BARBARA, Jan. 24.—Construction of a highway from Maricopa, in Kern county, to Ventura, through the Santa Ynez, San Rafael and San Emigdio ranges is included in the five-year construction program for the Santa Barbara national forest, recommended by Forest Supervisor Chester E. Jordan, and included in plans for the expenditure of $1,000,000 in the four Southern California national forests.

The road will give the San Joaquin valley, and especially the west side, another outlet to the coast, and will cut approximately fifty miles from the distance between Santa Barbara and Bakersfield or Fresno.

The new road, which will run for forty miles through the mountains to connecting roads near the valley, will cost nearly $200,000, Supervisor Jordan estimates. The plan has been agitated for a number of years.

Steel Production On Continued Expansion

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 24.—Steel production in this district continues to expand and strengthening of prices with anxiety on the part of buyers for deliveries seems to indicate that the situation has not weakened in the last month, despite somewhat light buying. Leading interests have advanced prices of bars and shapes $2 a ton, with plates unchanged. Production has practically reached the top here, so far as the larger mills are concerned.

Ownership of Pamas Islands Is Arbitrated

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—The United States and The Netherlands have entered into an agreement to submit to arbitration the question of the ownership of Pamas island in the Philippines. Both nations claim the island.

REALTY BILLS INTRODUCED AT CAPITOL

Brokers, Subdividers, Owners Of Property, Salesmen Will Be Affected

By GIL A. COWAN
For Southland News Service

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—Legislation affecting the real estate profession was introduced this week-end amid a rush of bills. It includes several Senate and Assembly measures affecting brokers, salesmen, subdividers and property owners generally.

Senator Arthur Breed introduced a bill strengthening the license feature of the present realty act, at the request of Commissioner Edwin Keiser. It limits the penalties for violations to misdemeanors, which in the opinion of Chief Deputy A. P. Soule will make the prosecutions more effective. Assemblyman Frank Eksward introduced a skeleton bill for Keiser which will likely carry the qualifications for brokers.

Six realty brokers in the Assembly and three in the Senate are introducing companion bills today providing the commissioner with an appropriation for printing pamphlets relative to California resources, to combat propaganda and authenticate development facts.

Subdivision Bill

This measure is backed by the Sacramento and Los Angeles boards and the California Real Estate association, according to Chris Jones, director of the latter.

Assemblyman Weller and McDowell have introduced bills affecting subdivisions, the latter requiring filing of duplicate record maps. Both are designed to protect purchasers. Several other bills amend the cemetery corporations laws, and municipal improvement assessment districts laws.

CEREMONY TO MARK STREET LIGHTING

Advancement Association to Stage Celebration As 'Juice' Turned On

The light of 168,800 candles will leap from the ornamental street lights along Glendale avenue, at a monster "turning out" party, planned by the Glendale Advancement association, following the announcement today that this big job of installing 211 standards is complete. The announcement was made by Peter Diederich, superintendent of plant and production. Each standard contains two 400-candlepower globes, making a total of exactly 168,800 candlepower that will illuminate this street when the switch is turned on.

Some prominent citizen of Glendale, probably Mayor Spencer Robinson, will be accorded the honor of actually throwing the switch that sends the "juice" flowing into the wires, it is announced by President C. W. Ingledue of the Glendale Advancement association, after a conference with Mr. Diederich.

Not only east Glendale, but all Glendale, will participate in the ceremonies attendant upon flooding this important north-and-south thoroughfare with light, Mr. Ingledue states. The date of the momentous celebration cannot be announced until the plans have been worked out in more detail, but the assurance is given that it will be within a matter of a few days.

The 211 standards now installed along Glendale avenue reach from Monterey road on the north to San Fernando road on the south. They are of the Union Metal type, similar to those recently installed along East Broadway and now going in on Central avenue, according to Mr. Diederich. The total cost to Glendale avenue property owners approximates $90,000. The job has been under way for some months.

Plans being arranged by the Glendale Advancement association for the official "christening" of these new street lights include an automobile tour up and down Glendale avenue, with music by some prominent local band, followed by a speaking program at some centrally located place, states Mr. Ingledue, with appropriate remarks by leading citizens.

So great has been the demand in Italy for cotton goods, that mills there are six months behind orders, with a resulting increase in the use of American cotton.

Nearly 6,000,000 pounds of shoe polish made in this country were shipped abroad last year.

District Conference

"May the Parent-Teacher association provide the background for universal respect for law," was the desire expressed Thursday by Mrs. Hugh Bradford, president of the California Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations, addressing a conference of over 500 P.-T. A. members of the first district meeting all day at the high school in Alhambra. "Better homes today mean better homes tomorrow" and "Never commercialize P.-T. A." were two striking declarations made by Mrs. Bradford to her audience.

Glendale was particularly proud of the compliment she paid the First District for its extension work, because Mrs. W. A. Kulp of Glendale is district extension chairman.

Among the 500 P.-T. A. members present at the conference there were over fifty from Glendale. A presidents' council was the first event of the day's program. It was followed by a parliamentary drill led by Mrs. A. H. Brown of Glendale, district parliamentarian. The P.-T. A. song was played by the Alhambra High school orchestra, while the conference audience stood. Greetings from the city of Alhambra was given by a city official. Mrs. John Robert White, jr., of Glendale, state chairman of child labor and legislation, was another speaker of the morning. She talked on legislation pertaining to child welfare. After the luncheon in the school cafeteria, C. H. Peterson, principal of a Mexican school, talked on "Americanization." Observance of founders' day, February 17, was urged by Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson of Glendale, district chairman of founders' day.

Wilson

Wilson Parent-Teacher association will meet Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the school. A speaker on the school bonds will be present and Mrs. Frank M. Arnold will give vocal numbers. A meeting of the executive board will be held at 2 o'clock and Mrs. Arthur Franklin, president urges all members to be present as important business matters will be discussed.

Postoffice Proposed At Highway Highlands

Establishment of another new fourth-class postoffice in the vicinity north of Glendale was announced today from Washington, and applications for the postmastership invited, in a communication to Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson of the Glendale office. The new office will be at Highway Highlands, located above La Crescenta, near Sunland. Postmasters of Glendale, La Crescenta, Tujunga and other offices were notified that applicants for the new postmastership should file blanks immediately.

LEGION NOTES

A joint meeting of Glendale Post, No. 127, and the Auxiliary, was held last night with a large number of members in attendance from each of the organizations. Glenn Mapes, chairman of the athletic committee, reported members may participate in any of the athletic events of the city. The post basketball team is listed in the schedule which includes various patriotic and civic organizations. A team has been entered in a newly-organized tennis tournament, he said.

Adjutant E. E. McWain reported on the trophies awarded the post in the Tournament of Roses parade. The James A. Drain trophy, which was awarded the Glendale post by the national commander, is now at post headquarters. The post has been assured there would be no delay on the James A. Drain trophy as the award would stand regardless of protests having been made. The members showed their appreciation of the award and the beauty of the trophy by hearty applause when displayed before them. The trophy stands 27 inches high and is valued at $350.

K. F. Butler, director of the bugle and drum corps, announced the dance to be held February 12 at Hahn's hall, and also announced their plans for presenting a rodeo some time in May.

A report read by the adjutant of the meeting sponsored by the Glendale post presided over by Dr. William C. Mabry, relative to the construction of the patriotic memorial in the city of Glendale for all service organizations, shows that the meeting was a 100 per cent success and the organizations represented were in favor of such a proposition and have returned to their organizations to report at their next meetings the proposition as discussed at the committee meeting. The next meeting of this committee will be held February 5 at 8 o'clock in the American Legion hall.

The Glendale post is conducting a membership drive under the leadership of J. W. Everington. Last night proved a greater step in progress with the members of the Auxiliary who met with the post for the purpose of perfecting an organization that would obtain greater results for both the post and the auxiliary. This membership drive is a joint effort for members in both the American Legion post and the Auxiliary.

Initiation for candidates in the Glendale post will be held next Friday at 8 o'clock at 333 North Brand boulevard, it was announced. W. H. Regelin and his crew of "wreckers" will have charge of the meeting.

Short talks were made by Mrs. E. W. Gilliland, president of the auxiliary; Mrs. George L. Kaeding, past president of the auxiliary; Mrs. Nellie Snow Hyer, past president of the auxiliary; Mrs. Charles Nagle, chairman of the auxiliary membership committee. Plans have been made to have a joint meeting with the auxiliary the fourth Friday night of every month.

Other guests and speakers last night were: Mrs. Z. A. Nicholson, Mrs. M. Krug, Mr. and Mrs. Al Cullins, Mrs. D. M. Hammond, Randall Lindsey, Hugo Zunker, George Hamond and others.

The Glendale post officers and the officers of the unit of the auxiliary are to install the officers of the post and auxiliary, respectively, at Tujunga, Thursday night. Members desiring to make the trip will meet at the American Legion hall at 7:30 o'clock, where transportation will be furnished, it was announced.

Millions See Sun Go Into Complete Eclipse

in the squad. Mrs. R. W. Marriott manned a spectograph. Miss Mary France focused a seventy-inch camera and Max Miller, 13, son of Professor Miller, guided a seventeen-inch camera. Professor Brown made a tender adjustment of his new device for photographing the sun's corona. The novel feature of the instrument was a pendulum swinging in front of the camera lens, allowing for fractional picturization.

Professor Miller piloted the twin Einstein camera with its history-making possibilities. The assistants mounted to their scaffolds, ready to uncover the giant lenses.

Ready! Camera!

"One minute to go," shouted George Clothier, timekeeper. "Draw your slides."

"Thirty seconds to go. Uncover," roared Clothier over the wind.

Bending close to his chronometer he began shouting, "one, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine."

The moment of the eclipse had arrived.

"Flash," yelled each camera captain. The timekeeper called off the precious 120 seconds. Telescopes were swinging. Science tried to look a million years within two minutes.

Thirteen-year-old Max Miller was shivering beside his camera. Perhaps he was cold.

Meanwhile the mechanism of business in New Haven had halted.

As the shrouded sun began to reappear, a patrolman directing traffic, blew his whistle and the thin stream of vehicles took on life. The sun also continued on its way.

Millions See Eclipse

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Before an awe-stricken audience of 20,000,000 persons, the sun, moon and stars today staged a spectacle of unequalled beauty and grandeur in the great celestial theatre, a phenomenon that will live forever in the memory of those who witnessed it.

It was the solar eclipse. It was seen by people strung along across the map of the United States from Red Wing, Minn., to the Atlantic Ocean. It came at 8 o'clock, when the moon first nibbled at the sun's disk, reached the point of a total eclipse in New York at 9:11, plunging the metropolis into darkness and then slowly passed eastward toward the Shetland Islands. At 10:29 the last vistage of black left the sun and the eclipse was over.

City Is Called To Answer Sycamore Road Owners

Ray L. Morrow, Glendale city attorney, will appear in Department 25 of the Los Angeles Superior court Monday morning, representing A. J. Van Wie, city clerk, and the members of the City Council, who have been served with summons by Sycamore Canyon road property owners, R. Belcher being one of the complainants.

It was an effort to restrain the clerk and council from proceeding with the collection of assessments for paving work on this street that the complainants issued the summons. Their counsel, Mr. Morrow, promises that he will spring a surprise in court Monday morning.

Women's Athletic Club Forms Swimming Class

Organization of a new swimming class is announced by the Women's Athletic club, a meeting being called of all interested at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George G. Smith, 340 Burchett street. Fine weather prevailing, all sports of the club are proving popular. On Wednesday the tennis department played on the Harrower courts and later motored to Brookside park, Pasadena, for lunch and more tennis. They plan to have such an outing every meeting day. Reservations for the card benefit January 30 at the home of Mrs. R. C. Preston, are being taken by Mrs. Marshall Ferguson, Glendale 4129-W.

The district Y. M. C. A. executive board and officers of Glendale Hi-Y met today to complete plans for the "Fathers and Sons" banquet at the Glendale Presbyterian church, February 9, when Governor Friend W. VOLCANO ACTIVE

TOKIO, Jan. 24.—The Shirane volcano, near Kusatsu is again pouring out ashes and smoke and the populace fled from the vicinity in great alarm today.

AT LA CRESCENTA

LA CRESCENTA, Jan. 24.—A meeting of the literature section of the Women's club was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mark S. Collins, with the curator, Mrs. Charles Collins, in charge. Missions of earlier California days were discussed, interesting papers being read. Mrs. Mark Collins spoke on the life of Fra Junipero, Mrs. C. O. Miller told of Santa Barbara mission in detail, Mrs. Viola Carpenter gave a short article on Carmel mission, Mrs. G. Newton gave side-lights on the first days of San Capistrano.

Work for the next meeting will embrace the history of California from the time of the Mexican war to the raising of the Bear flag. After the papers were read and discussed, tea was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. F. Newton.

Little Miss Virginia Pinkus is recovering from her recent serious illness.

The district executive board of the Boy Scouts' council met in response to the call of the board, Mark S. Collins. The meeting was held at Max Riener's, where luncheon was served. Plans for 1925 were formulated. The first public event of the new year will be a camp-fire meeting January 30 on Ocean View between Michigan and Montrose avenues. Members of the council present at the meeting were Mark S. Collins, Arthur Cox, E. Adkins, G. Hedges and Scoutmaster Cheesman.

Tonight the Women's club of La Crescenta valley will hold its first social affair of the year. A special program has been arranged for the dance which is in charge of Mesdames Fred Anderson, Mark S. Collins and C. A. Haskins. Refreshments will be served. Verdugo Hills orchestra will furnish the music. Proceeds of the affair will go to the building fund of the new clubhouse, erection of which is to begin very shortly.

The illustrated lecture on old New England, given last night at the Community church, was well attended. Rev. Hoffman, who gave the lecture, lived in the states he spoke on. Proceeds go to the treasury of the Ladies' Service league of the church, under whose auspices the affair was given.

Plans for Fathers' night are being completed, a party will be given in the La Crescenta schoolhouse, the date to be announced later.

Services of the Episcopal church of St. Luke of the Mountains are new held in the new church at the corner of Rosemont and Michigan avenues. Sunday school is at 9:45 o'clock, church services at 10:45 o'clock.

A tea is to be held at the home of Mrs. Charles Turck on Monday afternoon from 2:30 to 5 o'clock. The affair is given for the benefit of the building fund of the La Crescenta Women's club. Tables are being reserved for bridge, five-hundred and mah jongg.

Mrs. John Newton Russell Junior of North Hobart boulevard, in Los Angeles, has been the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Turck during the past week.

Whitney Boys' Chorus Calls First Rehearsal

The first rehearsal of the Glendale section of the Whitney Boys' chorus will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Glendale Presbyterian church. Mr. Whitney, organizer of the chorus, will be present. J. Arthur Myers, who is director of the Glendale section, will be present and requests that all Glendale boys from the age of eight years on who have voices, be present. Maurice Widdows, assistant director of the chorus, will be present and discuss the matter of drilling and parade work. Auxiliaries to the Whitney Boys' chorus are being organized in Southern California and a concert tour is being planned.

bers here in regard to an excursion to be made south early in March by the entire legislature. The chamber, it was said, has raised a fund of $15,000 for this purpose.

With the budget disposed of and everyone satisfied on that score, the second half of the session will have free sway at the following measures: highway financing program; conservation, including the the reforestation program of the California Development league, water question and taxation. These are the more important measures which the lawmakers will consider.

Capital punishment, or, rather, its abolishment, will be at the front in the consideration of the legislators. Two members, Senator Roy Fellom, from San Francisco, and Assemblyman Sidney Graves, of Los Angeles, have measures before the Legislature to do away with hanging of murderers in California.

WHAT IS FUNCTION OF PANEL BOARD IN HOME?

Why It Should Be Safe

By A. E. HAWES

Usually the prospective home builder does not give very much attention to the panel board or fuse cabinet to be located in her home. A good many of them do not even know of the existence of a panel board until there had been some emergency in which the fuses have blown, putting out the lights.

This is not always due to defective wiring. It's a matter of fact, it more often occurs when individual circuits are "overloaded." This means that two or more articles of electrical consumption are on a circuit where the protective fuse is not of sufficient capacity to carry that much current. This greater demand for current melts the little lead link which is in the fuse itself, automatically cutting off the current and protecting the wiring itself from carrying more than it was designed for. With a panel board the woman merely unscrews the blown fuse and puts in a new one with the same ease and nearly in the same manner that she would replace a burned-out lamp globe.

DRIVE ON OWN YOUR HOME SPREADS

The California "Own Your Home" movement for 1925 received the endorsement of the national home builders' and subdividers' division in annual conference at Dallas, according to Clifford J. Platt, state chairman. A national "Own Your Home" week is proposed, and plans to that end are being worked out by Chairman Platt and Chairman Bert L. Clogston of the home builders' and subdividers' division of the National Association of Real Estate boards.

At Oakland, State Chairman Fred T. Wood of the home builders and subdividers and Harry B. Allen, president of the San Francisco Real Estate board, are among the leaders who are co-operating with the state chairman and his committee, which now includes about fifty realtors in representative sections of the state.

In Los Angeles the chairman of the "Own Your Home" movement is C. E. Culberson of the Los Angeles Investment Co., one of the largest and most successful home building concerns in the state.

Plan Conference

National Secretary Herbert U. Nelson has pledged his cooperation to the "Own Your Home" movement, and it is proposed to have a whole week set apart throughout the nation. Realty boards, generally, are to name "Own Your Home" committees.

The first home-owning conference in California is tentatively set by Chairman Platt for Saturday, March 14, at Pasadena, and will consist of morning, luncheon and afternoon sessions.

It is predicted that more than 200 delegates from southern realty boards will attend the conference.

On Saturday, April 11, a northern conference will be held at San Francisco or Oakland, according to the chairman.

The Wrath To Come

By E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM, Copyright 1924

CHAPTER XXIX

Grant chose another deck for his promenade. The magnificent and primitive selfishness of his sex had asserted itself. He found nothing but relief in this meeting with Gertrude. He could, at least, go to Susan with his hands free, so far as he ever could be free. The trouble of it was that, for all her worldliness, he feared her standards, feared that vein of idealism which he had once or twice detected in her. Of course there was something artificial about the whole outlook. A thing which she knew, that everybody else knew, ranked a little differently to that nebulous past which, by common consent, was somewhere locked away in the back chambers of a man's life. Yet, with it all, Susan's common sense was admirable. There was her father to guide her.

Later in the day he revisited Cornelius Blunn and found little improvement in his condition. The only moment when a spark of his old spirit showed itself was when, with a pitiful groan, he murmured:

"And to think that I must return!"

"You are coming back to the States, then?" Grant asked quickly.

For a single moment the man's self-control reasserted itself. He shook his head feebly.

"I have too many affairs on hand," he said, "to make plans. Maybe at once, maybe in many months.

"One thing is very certain. I shall not stay in England long. My own country I love. America I love. But England, no. Excuse me, Mr. Slattery. I can talk no longer. I find it exhausting. Your look of health offends me. You look as though you were on your way to eat a hearty meal, and that offends me more. Come and see me when I am stronger. Muller!"

Grant strolled away, smiling. It was a very harmless and helpless Corneluis Blunn, this. But for how long?

The preliminaries of Grant's mission to London seemed to him, eager to get in touch with the vital things, monotonous and a little wearisome. He paid his respects to his own ambassador and received the entree to the Embassy. Afterwards he made a formal application for an appointment with Lord Yeovil, and, after a brief delay, was accorded an interview in Downing Street at six o'clock that evening. The interval he filled up by calling with the Naval Attache of his Embassy upon the Admiralty, and with the Military Attache upon the War Office. At six o'clock precisely he was received in Downing Street by Arthur Lymane, who welcomed him with a certain amount of surprise.

"Glad to see you and all that, Slattery," he said, "but I never thought of you as being on the official side of anything. I thought you'd absolutely chucked the service some years ago."

"I'm on a special mission," Grant explained. "They've sent me over to see one or two people here and especially Lord Yeovil. I'm going back on Saturday."

"We shall all be fellow passengers then," Lymane observed. "Do you think America will be able to stand the troupe of us? Because we're all coming—even bringing our own little typists this time."

"Is Lady Susan—" Grant began hesitatingly.

"Yes, Lady Susan's coming along."

"She's all right, I suppose," Grant enquired. "I don't seem to have heard anything of her for some time."

"In the pink. She's been doing the honors for her father this season and doing them wonderfully, too."

"Engaged yet?" Grant ventured with a ridiculous affectation of carelessness.

"Nothing announced," was the cautious reply. "There are three or four of them running neck and neck. Bobby Lancaster's fallen behind a bit, although he's as keen as ever. Lord Glentarne's chief favorite for the moment, and there are a lot of rumors that Buckingham Palace has its eye on her. No matrimonial news about you, I suppose, Slattery?"

"None."

A little bell rang, and Grant was ushered into the presence of the man who, a few months ago, notwithstanding the differences in their ages, had been his most intimate friend. From the moment of his entrance, however, he understood that those days were past. Lord Yeovil was courteous, even friendly. Nevertheless the change in his demeanor would have been apparent to a man of fewer perceptions than Grant.

"Very glad to see you again, Slattery," the Prime Minister said, motioning him to a seat. "It seems a long time since we used to sit cudgelling our brains about those bridge problems."

"History is giving us something much more serious with which to occupy ourselves, sir," Grant replied. "All the things which you and I used to speak about in those days are coming to pass."

Lord Yeovil nodded.

"This time, I gather, you come to me officially."

"That is true, sir. I am the bearer of a message and representations from my government to yours. May I beg for your serious attention?"

"By all means," the Prime Minister acquiesced. "My car is ordered for seven o'clock. Till then I am at your service. I will just give Arthur a few messages and leave word that we are not to be disturbed."

Until a quarter to seven Lord Yeovil was an attentive listener. When his visitor had at last finished, he was looking very grave.

"I have always felt a premonition of something of this sort," he confided. "My invitation to the States was practically founded upon it. But I must confess I had no idea that things were so imminent. Nor even at the present moment is it quite clear to me how Germany and Japan propose to work this thing."

"There is a great deal that we have to discover yet, sir," Grant declared. "We're reconstructing the scheme more thoroughly, day by day, but, from the facts we have, it seems as though the central idea is that the Japanese fleet, which we have reason to believe is much larger than it should be, will approach the west coast of America at exactly the same time that the German fleet, by the way, augmented, without a doubt, by the Russian. We in America, as you know, sir, being the instigators of the Limitation of Armaments, have been most scrupulous in keeping zealously to our official tonnage in every class of battleship, and the consequence seems to be that the American fleet, even if it could meet either of these undivided, would be greatly inferior in numbers, and the idea of dividing it to meet these two opposing forces simultaneously would be simply to court disaster.

"This, of course, is all supposition," Lord Yeovil observed.

THE GATEWAY

A treat is in store for all those who patronize the Gateway Theatre for the next three days, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, where "The Silent Accuser," the new Metro-Goldwyn production, will be given. A new dog star, Peter the Great, gives a remarkable performance, changing in an instant, from a gentle animal into a snarling, fighting beast. The feature players include Eleanor Boardman, Raymond McKee and Earl Metcalfe.

The story, which tells of a dog's rescue of his master from the punishment incurred by another, has been translated to the screen in a most convincing manner by Chester M. Franklin, who, with assistant director Frank O'Connor, prepared the scenario from Jack Boyle's story. Charles Dreyer is responsible for the superb photography and Cedric Gibbons designed the settings. Sophie Wachner was costume designer.

DOBINSON PLAYERS

"Love Laughs" will be presented again tonight at the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre by the Dobinson Players, and will be seen for a second week starting Wednesday, January 28. The author is George D. Parker. The play combines a delightful love theme with a gripping gem theft mystery. The curtain rises at 8:15 o'clock.

The cast chosen for the production includes Mary Isabelle Alpaugh, Joseph McManus, William H. Stephens, Richard Ehlers, Eugenia Llorence, Arthur Lovejoy and Harry J. Glazier.

The story revolves about a nerve specialist who is besought by a lovekstruck bachelor, who asks to be made sick so that he may be nursed by his inamorata. Propinquity, says the bachelor, will bring about the desired engagement. The doctor finally responds to the request and the ten days' supposed illness is on.

THE GLENDALE

Maurice (Lefty) Flynn in "The No-Gun Man" concludes today at the Glendale Theatre. Sunday, Monday and Tuesday the feature is Pauline Frederick in "Smouldering Fires."

THE T. D. & L.

Glenn Hunter in "Merton of the Movies" concludes today at the T. D. & L. Theatre. Sunday, Monday and Tuesday the feature is "Frivolous Sal," with Eugene O'Brien and Mae Busch.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S COCOANUT CAKE

"Would you please do me a favor, Nurse Jane?" asked Uncle Wiggily of his muskrat lady housekeeper one day.

"Certainly," she answered with a polite flip of her tail. "What is it?"

"I am hungry for cocoanut cake," went on Uncle Wiggily. "Could you make me one?"

"Of course I will!" laughed Nurse Jane. "Nothing is easier!"

"Oh, yes, something is easier than making a cocoanut cake!" said the rabbit gentleman.

"What?" asked Nurse Jane.

"Eating it!" chuckled Mr. Longears. "But I'll attend to that part of it. When will you make the cake?"

"Right away," answered Nurse Jane.

"Then I'll stay home and watch you, instead of going adventuring," spoke the rabbit. So taking his pink twinkling nose with him to smell the good things, Uncle Wiggily hopped to the kitchen of his hollow stump bungalow.

There Nurse Jane got out butter, eggs, flour, sugar and all the other things that go into the cake. Then she went to the cupboard and brought out a large, round, brown cocoanut—a whole one that she intended cracking open so she could take out the white meat inside, grating it fine for the cake.

But before Nurse Jane had a chance to crack the cocoanut, the telephone bell tinkled, and Nurse Jane, answering it, with a dab of flour on her nose, heard Mrs. Twistytail, the lady pig, grunt:

"Oh, Nurse Jane, can you run over to our pen right away? Curly has fallen down and cut his head, and I'm so nervous!"

"I'll skip right over," said the kind muskrat lady. "I'll finish your cocoanut cake when I come back," she told Uncle Wiggily.

But when Nurse Jane had gone, leaving the cocoanut and the cake stuff out on the table, Uncle Wiggily said to himself:

"I believe I can go on and make the cake. All I'll need to do is to mix up the flour, sugar, butter, eggs and the cocoanut and bake them in the oven. I'll do it." But when he had stirred the cake batter as he had seen Nurse Jane do, he looked at the cocoanut, large, brown and round as it lay on the table.

"You certainly don't go in the cake the way you are," said the bunny. "I guess I must break you open to get the meat out from inside the shell. I'll whang you down on the floor and break you, Mr. Cocoanut."

Uncle Wiggily raised the cocoanut up in the air, and just as he threw it down, the door of his bungalow opened and in popped the Fuzzy Fox. And at the same moment the cocoanut bounced up off the floor and hit the Fox on the end of his nose.

"Oh, is my cocoanut broken?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"No, but my nose is! Oh, you've cracked my nose with your cocoanut!" howled the Fox. And then he forgot all about what he had come for—which was to nibble the bunny's ears—and away the Fox ran as fast as he could go.

Then Uncle Wiggily laughed and threw the cocoanut down again. This time it broke, and he took out the white meat. And just then Nurse Jane came back, having put some salve on poor Curly's cut head. And then the muskrat lady took charge and finished making the cake. And very likely it's a good thing she did. For Uncle Wiggily didn't really know much about baking.

Anyhow the cake came out of the oven lovely and brown. And if the mosquito doesn't bite holes in the sugar cookie so it looks like a piece of Swiss cheese, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Sammie's sled.

Heart and Home — Health and Happiness

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

"Dear Doctor: I need help. I want to lose about twenty-five pounds. I am only five feet, two inches tall and did weigh 217. By following your instructions I got down to 147 and now I have gained and weigh 156, and it seems impossible to get started again.—Mrs. R."

I suggest that you go on a liquid diet for at least one day, Mrs. R. That seems the best way to get started on a reducing diet. As you are so short do not have more than 500 to 600 calories for this day.

If you are used to coffee you will want your coffee in the morning. It is not harmful if used in moderation. During the day, at periods that suit you best, take some skim milk, eighty calories to the glass, or orange juice, 100 calories to the glass, or vegetable broths, without any fat, about twenty-five calories to the glass, or you can take a mixture of these. Drink plenty of water between times. If you practice one liquid diet day a week, you can perhaps eat more than 1200 C's on the other days.

According to our rule for finding the average adult net weight, for five feet in height, in stocking feet, allow 110 pounds; for every inch over or under that allow five and one-half pounds more, or less, respectively. At five feet, two inches in height you should weigh around 122, depending on the size of your bones. (You can weigh a little more if you are heavy boned or less if you are slender boned.) So you have at least twenty-five pounds to lose.

Being so short you are never going to be able to eat very much unless you increase your physical activities. Are you having some good vigorous exercise every day? Remember that while the actual destruction of fat during exercise may not be so great, the benefits last for a long time after.

There is some reason why a few pounds in excess weight seem to act as an invitation for more to come on. I have had very many tell me that they could eat liberally without gaining after they got down to their normal weight. The reason, I believe, is that during the process of getting down to normal weight, the food tastes have changed and the concentrated sweets and other high caloried energy foods have lost their appeal. The habit of eating between meals and "tasting" also goes to the discard.

Coated Tongue

Mrs. S.—You say you have a coated tongue and a bad taste in your mouth, but you are not constipated and have no other disabilities.

How about your breathing? Is it unobstructed so that you can sleep with your mouth closed? The tongue will become coated over night if the mouth is left open because of the very rapid growth of the germs and yeasts on the tongue when the saliva with its antiseptic properties are absent.

One of my professors used to say that a coated tongue was largely a sign that food was not masticated thoroughly. Is that one of your failings?

You will often find that your tongue will be coated after taking certain foods—milk, for instance.

When you wash your teeth morning and night, scrape your tongue with a piece of whalebone or a spoon for the purpose. There are little tongue scrapers you can get in the drugstore. Do this gently enough so that you do not irritate the tongue.

Small Face Scars

M. B.—Smallpox marks, or small scars from other causes, if not too deep, can be removed by face peeling. For this, as for moles, etcetera, you must be sure to go to a scientific skin specialist.

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s.a.s.e., if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Chats On Beauty

By EDNA KENT FORBES

HAIR BRUSHES

Scrub your hair brushes twice a week and your hat and clothes brushes once a week or so. Dirty brushes won't get anything clean, neither hair nor cloth.

Here's a very easy way to scrub brushes and combs. Run a big basin full of hot water, add a few drops of any good household antiseptic, and a drop or two of ammonia, if the water is hard. Put in all the family brushes; you might as well do the lot at one time. First comb out the hairs that cling and then put the combs in the water too.

Rub soap over the brush bristles, holding the backs toward you—they'll spatter soap froth otherwise. Use the hair brushes to scrub the combs clean, it's the easiest way to clean between the teeth of the combs and it helps clean the brushes too.

The combs being clean first, can be pulled out and laid aside. The brushes will then have to be soaped and rubbed together so the bristles work through each other and one brush cleans the other. Drain off the water, run in hot water again, and put back the combs, to rinse. The combs can be wiped dry on a towel, the brushes shaken and wiped against a towel to remove surplus moisture, then laid on their backs to dry.

The drying takes little time, indeed if the brushes and combs are wiped they can be put at once, back down, on the dressing table where they belong. Or they will dry over a hot air or a steam radiator.

Kept clean, they'll wear better, and give better use. You should never, under any circumstances, brush your hair with a dirty brush or one used by someone else, not even by another member of your family. Dandruff is transferred by this careless habit.

Constant Reader: You cannot stop the tendency to grow this hair, but you can keep it from being noticed by bleaching the fine hair with peroxide and then extract every coarse hair with the tweezers as fast as it shows above the skin.

Mrs. Harry T.: If your hair continues to split after you have clipped the ends try singeing it.

Faded Blossom: You will freshen your skin if you use a cleansing cream every night before bathing. Remove all the cleansing cream and massage with a good cream until the pores have taken up all that is needed, after which rub the skin with a small piece of ice or dash very cold water over it until there is exhilaration from the treatment.

Elderly Madam: To keep your while hair from becoming discolored, always shampoo with a fine soap, preferably a good quality of castile. If there is a tendency toward a yellow shade, you can correct it by adding a little blueing to the last rinse.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question—The Editor.

"I have been reading a book on "Time Budgets'," says a letter which I have just received from one of our Reader Friends, "the efficiency expert who wrote this book advises the housewife to apportion her day so that one hour is devoted to this task, and another hour to that task. Since reading that book I have tried out the plan; I chose one of the many Time Budgets and changed it slightly (to suit my individual needs—as advised). But it didn't work because I was constantly interrupted by calls from my neighbors; No 'Time Schedule' allows for these unforeseen interruptions! Just as I got my schedule to working nicely I received a call from my right-hand neighbor who ran over to borrow something—and spent 30 minutes telling me how another woman was unkind to her after the Ladies' Aid meeting.

"When this neighbor went home I returned to my shattered schedule, revised it slightly, again got into its pace—when I suddenly was called to my kitchen door by my left-hand neighbor who had come over to tell me that her baby had croup the night before. Of course I invited her in and proceeded to give my advice concerning the application of goose-grease and nutmeg to the baby's chest; and from there I went on to cite perhaps a dozen instances in which the goose-grease-and-nutmeg treatment had proved eminently successful! Thus, from this experience I have come to the conclusion that no country housekeeper, at least, can make a Time Budget work. Perhaps it would suit a city woman who lived in an apartment house (where the neighbors do not call they tell me!) but I defy any small-town housewife to follow a Housework Schedule, day in, day out, for a week."

I am sure that this letter will interest many housekeepers. For it is so absolutely true. It is difficult for us to put through our planned program, because of just these interruptions.

On the other hand, what is more satisfactory than giving time to our friends? I'd rather "shatter" all the housework schedules in the world than wound a friend by not having time to receive her friendly little call cordially. We'd realize what these back-door calls mean to us—how dear they are, in their cosy intimacy—if our neighbor friends should cease making them. It is better to be a little inefficient in our housework than lonely! Neighborhood life is the sweetest thing in the world.

I do not refer, however, to calls made to spread some bit of gossip. A busy housekeeper simply has no time to "take sides" in a feud. I refer simply to the harmless call of friendship which eventually sends us back to our work with new vigor, happy in the realization that we are sincerely liked.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman, in care of the "Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

ing a title act amendment permitting restoration to record of property now under the Torrens act and provides a method therefor.

Veteran Measure

Twenty-four veterans in the Assembly have asked a $10,000,000 bond issue to keep the veterans' welfare board fund active in farm and home loans which will be submitted to the people next year. Two other bills give latitude to the board for buying mortgages and loaning more or less than $5000 to veterans.

Numerous changes are proposed in the insurance laws, affecting fire indemnity.

Many realty boards are on record against the proposal eliminating inheritance taxes and both the Assembly and Senate judiciary committees reported favorable low taxes for such securities as mortgages, foreign securities and solvent credits making the former a desirable investment, at the same time bringing forth several billion in hidden paper property. If passed, it means that many nonresidents will locate here permanently, says the California Taxation Improvement association.

PUCCINI'S PLAN

Puccini's plan to build an opera house at a cost of $800,000 in Rome, will probably be carried out by his heirs, with government and other financial aid.

Be a Paid Up Member of the Human Race

If you knew this was your last day of life and I came to you and could by a miracle grant you ten years more, what wouldn't you give?

What would you give? Would you give a half hour of your time three times a week for a while and a small portion of your earnings or a pittance of your accumulated savings?

You would? Would you, really?

Well! I cannot give you that ten years if you wait till your last day, but it is reasonable to expect ten years of added active life (beyond what you can otherwise have) if you have Osteopathy put you into condition and maintain your every organ and function at 100 per cent efficiency.

SOUTH PASADENA BEAT BY LOCALS

Dynamiters Provide Upset By Swamping Tigers on Own Court, 25 to 8

By ROSS M. RUSSELL, JR.
Of The Evening News Staff.

In a game that had more of an aspect of a football contest than a casaba tilt, the Glendale Dynamiters came back with a brilliant burst of almost perfect playing and completeiy swamped the South Pasadena Tigers, who went into the game to give the locals a good clawing yesterday on the Tiger's court. The score was 25 to 8.

Coach "Apollo" Pierce has evidently found the right combination, for the one he started was sure there. Reed Stearman and Francis Hardy as forwards, "Huli" Jensen as center, Carl Denney and Cecil Zaun as guards formed the quintet which brought Glendale back into its own in the basketball standing.

Although Pierce expected to beat the Tigers he was more or less astonished at the way the Dynamiters snapped into it and played ball. The Tigers were in the game to "smack 'em down" and profited little by their blacksmith tactics.

Stearman Stars

Reed Stearman, almost untried forward, proved to be the find of the day. He is fast as lightning and ran circles around the big Tigers, taking two steps to their one. Reed tossed three baskets, two in the first quarter, giving Glendale a big lead to start with. Francis Hardy was the main factor in defeating the South Pasadena team, throwing a grand total of twelve points, four field goals and four fouls.

Carl Denney featured with three pretty shots from the center of the court, all in the first quarter. "Huli" Jensen at center was a big help in advancing the ball to Hardy. Cecil Zaun played a real game as guard, coming in at just the right time to save the ball a good many times. He also made it hard for the Tigers to shoot at the Glendale goal and was a big factor in keeping down their score.

The Dynamiters did the big part of their scoring in the first quarter, when eight of their points were rung up; in the second quarter they shot a total of six points. The third quarter saw the tallying of six more points, while five were registered during the last period.

Have Pennant Hopes

This victory gives the locals a new hope of winning the pennant, should the Moors fall in defeat while the Dynamiters win the remainder of their games. Yesterday's team was an entirely different five from that which lost to Alhambra last Friday. The boys had speeded up their playing in all departments, were following the ball correctly and were closing up their defense on outsides. Reed Stearman, who is a fairly fast man, was a help in speeding up the playing, for he made the "big boys" step fast to keep up with him.

THE WALLOP COUNTS!

Sport Stars of Every Branch Prove the Value of It

RINGSIDE GOSSIP by FAIR PLAY

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The wise ones along the Great White Way are betting that Benny Leonard's retirement has just one string to it—the string is Mickey Walker. The dope is that Leonard, after much publicity and general excitement, will accept a munificent offer to return to the ring and battle for the welterweight championship.

If he does this he may not be charged with inconsistency, since his retirement related to giving up his lightweight crown. He did not say in so many words that he would never fight again.

According to the story he will keep himself in pretty fair shape this winter and then in the spring do some training to see how it goes. If he finds he can make the welterweight limit and still be fast, there is hardly a doubt, according to some insiders, but that he will accommodate the present champion.

It doesn't look as though he will be in danger. Benny, it is likely, would prove altogether too clever for the bull-like welter king and would cut him up pretty badly in fifteen rounds.

The maddest man in all Greater New York is Paddy Mullins, who manages Harry Wills. The cause of his rage is the reported intention of Dempsey to hand his crown to Tommy Gibbons when he retires.

Honest old Paddy gets so excited when he discusses this that one can hardly understand what he is saying. He himself has not the slightest idea that if Dempsey does figure in one more battle before he quits the ring that his opponent will be Harry Wills.

Mullins accepted certain promises from the Dempsey crowd in good faith for a long time, but he can't be fooled any more. So far as that goes, it is time Tex Rickard wakes up, too. He keeps harping on a Dempsey-Wills fight next summer.

There won't be any such battle. If Tex isn't kidding himself in what he says, then he is being kidded by some one else.

Wrestling Champ Asks Court's Aid In Title

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 24.—Wayne "Big" Munn, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, has applied in circiut court for an injunction restraining Ed "Strangler" Lewis and his manager, Billy Sandow, from circulating reports that Munn is not entitled to the championship title. Munn declared that stories alleged to have been circulated by Lewis and Sandow were hurting his chances of getting matches.

NEW POLICE TACTICS

By the aid of moving picture targets, policemen of New York are being taught to capture fugitives by crippling rather than killing.

By NORMAN BROWN
Written for The Evening News

It's the wallop that counts in sport—all dissertations regarding technique, science, skill and whatnot to the contrary notwithstanding.

Babe Ruth is a striking example of the supremacy of swat in baseball.

That wallop carried Ruth to unheard of heights in the realm of home run hitting. Then he turned it to other channels—that of ringing up enough plain ordinary base hits to win the American league batting championship last year.

Jack Dempsey fought his way to the heavyweight championship of the world and retained the title through the medium of the hardest body followers of the boxing game have ever seen. Dempsey may lack one of the attributes of greatness possessed by his predecessors. He undoubtedly lacks that innate desire to fight. But he packs a jolt in both hands no fighter before him has owned.

Hits 'Em Hard

Helen Wills, youthful tennis wonder of the Pacific coast, has won the national tennis title twice and now holds the Olympic net championship thanks to a powerful right arm that enables her to drive the ball with such a terrific speed that she wears out her opponents. True, she has the courage that one with the wallop must have and she has mastered the fine points of the game but her main asset is the "wallop."

Big Bill Tilden has won fourteen major titles in the tennis world, including several Davis cup victories by the medium of a dashing style of play that whips his opponents about their side of the court like the silken lash of a rawhide whip. His service is "n" times faster than a rifle shot to the man on the other side of the net.

She Has Power

Marion Hollins is the queen of swat in the women's ranks in the golf world. She outdrives many men stars. She gets the power into her wooden and iron shots with an ease and grace which belie the punch.

Jess Guilford is the Babe Ruth of the male golfers. His form has been the model of hundreds of club wielders seeking distance and power to better their scores.

The "wallop" seems an inborn trait of America's athletes. This punch was demonstrated again in the Olympic games, which Uncle Sam's representatives won by an overwhelming score.

Rockne Uses "Wallop

Much of Knute Rockne's success as a football coach at Notre Dame has been due to his ability to build up a team with the "wallop." Realizing the value of this "kick" Rockne early employed the idea of sending in a temporary team as "shock troops" against the opposition. This team, made up of second string men, "feels out" the opposing team's offensive and defensive strength. The first team watches. Then Rockne gives the word. The shock troops retire and the varsity eleven enters the play. They throw everything into the very first play. The opposition finds itself stunned by the suddenness of the attack. The damage is done before defensive measures can be taken.

The value of the wallop, however, lies partly in the fact that there is no successful defense for it. Science and skill bow before a "punch" that crushes everything before it.

The wallop is what counts.

LAWRENCE PERRY SAYS

Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—From Chicago comes winging the statement of an impartial observer that Paavo Nurmi had very excellent reasons for the grouch he developed over the conditions obtained at the Coliseum the night he ran the mile and a quarter under the auspices of the Illinois Athletic club.

Of course no one would accuse the Illinois Athletic club authorities of being so carried away by civic pride as to have the phantom Finn come to Chicago with the object of being defeated by Joie Ray, the idol of the windy city.

But, at the same time, being a foreigner and in the nature of things suspicious of strangers in a strange land, it is not to be regarded as absurd that Nurmi should have formed certain conclusions.

In fact, the Finn's attitude seems to indicate his feelings that all arrangements had been made to skip him. This is by no means to charge that this was the case, it is only stating how Nurmi seemed to feel about it.

First of all, the track was small. The turns were very steeply ditched, according to the writer's Chicago informant. He adds that it was in extremely poor condition. There were even nails sticking up in places. It was Nurmi who insisted that these be hammered down, so it is alleged.

An incident that seemed to peeve Paavo was the ceremony with which Ray was received when he arrived on the track. Among other things, a big bouquet of flowers was presented to him, while Nurmi apppears to have been pretty much ignored.

What Joie did with the flowers later is not stated. But, as it turned out, the posies were all that the little distance runner got out of the evening. For all the world knows the Finn left him well astern and broke the world's record.

Charles Dean, chairman of the Illinois Athletic club, who was in charge of this meet, in denying that Nurmi had grounds for dissatisfaction, said:

"Nurmi's temperament got the better of him and he nearly fell down on the situation completely. The day before the night of the meet Nurmi declined to come to Chicago.

"We did not know definitely that he was going to run until he stepped upon the track. We did all we could for Nurmi. We had a man in New York making arrangements for him. We engaged a drawing room on the train and still he balked at coming to Chicago. Then the Illinois A. C. threatened to force his disbarment unless he came.

"He arrived in accordance with agreement and more than made good on his wonderful reputation."

Film Actress, Ex-Grid Star Deny Engagement

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24.—Wedding bells will not ring for Grace Darmond, film actress, and Maurice Bennett (Lefty) Flynn, former football star before he became an actor, according to an announcement from both of them.

JOHN B. FOSTER'S VIEWS

Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Jimmy O'Connell and Cozy Dolan may yet get the hearing they have requested so that they may put their side of the Giant bribery scandal fully before the public. But if they do, it will be before another judge than Judge Landis, high commissioner of baseball, and freedom from prison rather than reinstatement to baseball will be the stake in the hearing.

District Attorney Banton of New York has ordered an investigation of the affair for possible submission to a grand jury with the idea of indicting O'Connell, Dolan, or both, in the event any criminal action can be sustained. Whether sufficient grounds even for indicting Dolan could be found is questioned by many who know all the facts.

Dolan, after announcing that he would bring suit against Commissioner Landis in order to clear himself of the charges, departed for his home in Wisconsin, where he has since remained. O'Connell is in California. Both of them probably will come to New York if the grand jury starts action on their cases.

There is some sentiment expressed for O'Connell by those who think that his expulsion from baseball is punishment enough for him. Under existing conditions there is little hope of his being reinstated, as it has been found that leniency in cases of offenses against the game does not pay.

Should the case ever be brought to trial in New York, all those who had to do with the hearing and subsequent punishment of the two players would be summoned as witnesses. Dolan's lawyer insists that if Judge Landis were put on the stand Dolan would be able to prove by his testimony that he was innocent and that he had taken what appeared to be an incriminating attitude of forgetfulness only because he was so perturbed over the situation that his mind did not function clearly.

Originally there was no intention to bring the case into the courts so far as organized baseball was concerned. President Heydler took the attitude that expulsion from baseball was sufficient punishment. Both Heydler and Commissioner Landis have said that the investigation of the case was not ended, however. The effort all along has been to get at the "higher up" presumed to have figured in the affair. A grand jury hearing might conceivably locate this "higher up." But to do it, the jury will have to examine some witnesses who have not as yet been turned up by the investigators of organized baseball.

BASEBALL

Some changes in the standings for the San Fernando Valley league are expected tomorrow. At the present time Van Nuys is in first place with a one-game lead over Lankershim, while Zelzah and Burbank are tied for third place one game behind Lankershim. The Sunday schedule calls for Zelzah to play at Van Nuys, Lankershim at San Fernando and Owensmouth at Burbank. Lankershim and Burbank should emerge winners, while the Zelzah-Van Nuys battle is a different proposition.

Les Taylor, pilot of the league leaders, will use Dennis O'Connell on the mound tomorrow, while Ken Parker, who has been signed to hurl for Evansville in the III loop next year, will pitch for Zelzah. Evidence of a pitchers' duel looms up bright on the eve of the crucial game.

The Glendale Caseys will have a day off tomorrow, while officials of the K. C. league are arranging the date for the championship game to be played at San Francisco in the near future. The local Caseys went through the league schedule without a defeat, and by virtue of their record will meet the winner of the northern division for the state title. The victories of Harry Manush's crew were mainly due to the hurling of "Chief" Butler, the work of Myers behind the log, and Cozington in the infield.

Santa Ana, runners-up in the Casey loop, will go to San Diego to meet the K. C. team, it has been announced by President Dan Murphy. The date has not been set.

Ban Johnson on Outs With Kenesaw Landis

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., Jan. 24.—Ban Johnson, president of the American league, has sung his swan song on his relations with Judge Kenesaw M. Landis.

"Landis, so far as I am concerned, does not exist any more," said Johnson. "I'm going to ignore him from now on."

The baseball scandal is a closed book so far as Johnson is concerned. He had nothing more to add to his recent statement of approval of the action of the district attorney in New York.

SPORTDOM ALL OVER

By JOSEPH L. KELLEY
Of The Evening News Staff.

There was one final step missing in Glendale's march to real cosmopolitanism in sunny end of California—that step has been taken or will be taken February 1, when Mrs. Florence Dobinson puts into effect a regular weekly, six-days-a-week stock performance schedule at the Playhouse. The small town is characterized by its combination "operee" house and small picture theatre; the "stand-still" city by its "palatial" movie house; the cosmopolitan city, first by its stock house, next its "legitimate," and last of all, cosmopolitans start talking and attending the "opera." There are some who will pooh-pooh the idea of the theatre as an essential ingredient in the compound that goes to make the cosmopolitan city. Those "some" are answered by being graciously ignored as far as this column is concerned. They know not whereof they speak when they pooh-pooh the theatre's place in cosmopolitan progress.

Joseph L. Kelley

Ye Ed wouldn't know Florence Dobinson if he saw her. We never have seen a Dobinson Players performance. But we do know the big part stock organizations in the theatre have played in human progress. Why not in Glendale?

We do know the big part the theatre has played throughout the history of civilization. Turn back to your days in high school when you read in your modern and mediaeval histories of the part the now world-famed coliseums played in Caesar's day and in the wild, hectic days when Demosthenes went down to the Grecian beaches and talked with pebbles in his mouth that he might better exhort his followers to "democracy." All of which comes under the head of entertainment, theatricals or whatever you will.

A grape-fruit called by any other name will squirt its acid water in your eye just the same. The point is, the theater can not be denied its place in the growth of any nation, city, town or hamlet, call it what you will.

The Dobinson Players started their good work in Glendale under probably bigger disadvantages than any other stock organization in the United States. And because they have "stuck it out"—even in the face of almost complete defeat, they, their management and their personnel get Ye Ed's compliments, if they mean anything.

Florence Dobinson faced a tough job. She went through with it. She has given the Dobinson Players' idea of production of some of stage's biggest and best dramatic offerings. She continues to do so.

Mrs. Dobinson probably knows Jessie Bonstelle, one of the best-known stock producers in America today. Jessie Bonstelle is holding forth in Detroit. During Ye Ed's term as dramatic editor of a Detroit paper, we reviewed two seasons of Miss Bonstelle's work.

Jessie Bonstelle is producing in a city of more than a million people—three-fourths of whom are factory and shop workers. Factory and shop people aren't very strong for dramatic stock. They prefer five-a-day and Big Time vaudeville and its variety. This didn't worry Miss Bonstelle. She "made 'em like it."

That is the admirable attitude being taken by Mrs. Dobinson. That's the attitude that made Glendale one of the leading cities in the west. Mrs. Dobinson is going to make Glendale like her stock and when she convinces Glendale, as she will, that all Glendale, not part, should patronize the Dobinson Players, she will have won a victory equal to if not greater than Jessie Bonstelle's in Detroit.

A victory like that means something—not only to Mrs. Dobinson but to Glendale as a boosting, progressive, growing, cosmopolitan city. It will be more of a victory for Glendale than for Mrs. Dobinson. To bring a city of 50-odd thousand people to an appreciation of the theatre as it is represented by a stock organization can not be denied a greater victory for the 50-odd thousand than for the one—Mrs. Dobinson.

There is no reason why Glendale shouldn't have as complete, as able and as artistic a stock organization as Los Angeles. Mrs. Dobinson is trying to give it one. Glendale will have to pitch in and help just the way its people pitched in and made Glendale the "talk of the country."

Witness what Charles Frohman's famous stock organization did for New York; what Jessie Bonstelle did for Detroit; what Oliver Morosco did for Los Angeles; what Poli did for Washington, D. C. These theatrical personages carried the name of their city wherever they went.

It's worth Glendale's time to give this a thought when they consider Mrs. Dobinson's brave attempt to establish a real, paying, educating, entertaining stock organization in Glendale.

Glendale is continually on the lookout for booster ideas, as Glendale should be. Here's Glendale's chance of a lifetime. Get behind Mrs. Dobinson and her organization by patronizing her productions. People will start talking about the Dobinson Players. "Oh! Yes, they're in Glendale—a mighty fine dramatic organization." That's what will be said and that's the kind of stuff that will spread Glendale's reputation as the up-and-goingest city in the sunny end of California.

Don't lose sight of the fact that a stock organization in the theatre can do just as much good and bring to bear just as much good influence as your biggest commercial industry, if that stock organization be given the proper backing.

A dramatic stock company like the Dobinson Players is a "home grown" product—not a fly-by-night theatrical troupe that comes into town with sole intention of taking from it dollars and cents. The Dobinson Players are here to stay and to help in Glendale's progress. If they succeed Glendale succeeds. "Glendale did it"—not the "Dobinson Players did it" will be the reward. That's worth working for isn't it—a reward like that.

Delinquent Women Are Championed by Weller

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—Reestablishment of the Sonoma farm home for delinquent women is asked in a bill introduced in the California Legislature by Assemblyman Frank C. Weller of Glendale, administration leader. He says the request came from the California Federation of Women's clubs. When approached by Weller regarding his attitude Governor Richardson, who heretofore has vetoed the project, was noncommittal as to his future action. But he did not object to Weller's determination to offer the measure.

Weller also introduced the Los Angeles County Planning commission's park district bill which would give Los Angeles, Orange and part of San Bernardino counties the opportunity of voting bonds for beach and mountain play grounds.

California Leader In Building Along Pacific

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—The usual cessation of building on the Pacific coast has not taken place so far this season. The total for eighty cities in December was $39,902,304. California led, with Oregon second and Washington third. The volume this month has been equally good so far.

WOMAN RULER IS FACING CRISIS

Political Antagonism May Overcome Sympathy for Wyoming Governor

By SUE McNAMARA
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Jan. 24.—Will political antagonism, now coming out of its temporary drugged sleep of sentiment and chivalry, cause something besides a smooth sea for the old ship Wyoming, with a woman governor at the helm?

Now that the Legislature has convened and the lawmakers are getting down to brass tacks some of them are rubbing their eyes and viewing with something akin to dismay this frail, cultured little black-robed product of home and society whom they have entrusted with such momentous responsibilities. Not that she is giving any evidence of not being able to fill the job—as yet. But from now on those who were not keen on having a woman governor are going to watch her every step.

The wave of sympathy upon which Mrs. Ross was swept into office, following the sudden death of her husband three month ago, has begun to subside and practical politicians are facing t' real issue. Will this gently-reared southern woman be able to handle the job?

Not for Woman

Loyalty speaks oftenest on executive lips with a generous "give her a chance." Yet one shrewd senator, chewing on his cigar, in the lobby of the Plains hotel, voiced a common sentiment here when he said:

"No, I am not for a woman governor because I think too much of women. I am for womanly women and manly men and the political rows any governor is apt to get mixed up in should not be for the gentler sex. There isn't a man in the Legislature who would not go through fire for Mrs. Ross, but down in their hearts lots of them are sorry to see her take the governor's chair.

"She is too lovely and fine a woman to take such a job. I may be old-fashioned, but I still like to keep women on a pedestal."

Is 'Home' Wom

Several of the younger legislators who had enthusiastically called the new governor the most charming and lovely of women unconsciously nodded their heads when the older man had finished speaking. And, of course, there are a few cynics who are prophesying that at the end of her term the state will find to its sorrow that "the hand that rocked the cradle is the hand that rocked Wyoming."

It is a known fact that it was the sons of the wide-open spaces in their gallon hats, in other words, the people out over the state of Wyoming an n of Cheyenne, who elected Mrs. Ross. Townspeople who were accustomed to seeing her rolling about in her limousine or presiding over a tea urn, could not quite see her with her sleeves rolled up wrestling with affairs of state.

Lived In South

Mrs. Ross has always been a home woman and a southern home woman at that. She comes of a fine old southern family the Taylors of Tennessee. When it comes to a grace and charm as a hostess Cheyenne grants she is without a peer. But when the first flush of sentiment and enthusiasm has died will she be able to hold together the party lines with all the other members of her board Republicans while she herself is a Democrat?

Exalted ideals are perishable things, even in a chivalrous state like Wyoming. Meanwhile a tired little woman comes home around midnight from the night sessions at the capitol to the big empty mansion on the hill.

Radical Japs Demand Firm U.S. Attitude

TOKIO, Jan. 24.—Demanding that Japan adopt a firmer attitude towards the United States in regard to immigration and the forthcoming American naval maneuvers in the vicinity of Hawaii, Keijuro Nakamura, opposition member, Friday delivered a fiery attack in the diet against the government of Premier Takaaki Kato for its "nebulous attitude" on these subjects.

Nakamura declared that both the American exclusion act and the proposed naval operations around the Hawaiian Islands were contrary to the spirit of the four power treaty and indicated undue aggressiveness on the part of the United States.

Government supporters who attempted to stop Nakamura's denunciation were howled down by the opposition.

COMMENT by GIL A. COWAN

Few Southern Californians know that a tourist can travel all night on one of the navigable rivers of this state—the Sacramento—which is historic of the early days of transportation.

Residents of Glendale would chuckle in glee at the thought of, floating down the Los Angeles river to the harbor at San Pedro, for usually there isn't enough water in the channel for small boys to go swimming.

But in the northern part of the state great rivers abound. The writer took the night boat from Sacramento to San Francisco and saw some of the historic landings you read about in history of the gold days.

The Sacramento river trip gives one a view of the delta lands where vegetables and rice and swamp growths abound. It is a country well known to the oriental farmer and the "river rat," and highways now are bringing the small towns along the muddy course to life.

And when mud is mentioned there is a problem confronting Cacramento of which A. S. Dudley, former Glendalian and now secretary of the Portland Chamber of Commerce is giving good advice. After leaving the Los Angeles chamber he went to Sacramento as secretary and later to the Oregon metropolis.

After seeing what the ship canal has done for Portland Mr. Dudley is urging that Sacramento get governmental aid in bringing "the ocean" to the capital city. That is a splendid proposal, for it would give more traffic to San Francisco bay, and give cheap freight to farm products.

It is not out of the way to predict a great change in the scheme of things in the northern part of the state. With industrial centers becoming highly populated, the Sacramento valley will serve as a market basket, the same as the San Joaquin valley provides dairy products and green stuff for Los Angeles and Southern California.

Land will become more valuable. Natural resources will be developed. And prosperity will be reflected both north and south.

San Francisco has a vision of this, the writer can see from the vantage point of Market street. It is building imposing edifices to house its public offices.

It is a step ahead of Los Angeles in this respect, but Los Angeles has a civic center plan being worked out which will be the equal of anything in the west.

T. R.'S CROWD SCATTERED TO WINDS

Death Claims Three Members Of 'Tennis Cabinet' With Roosevelt

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1925.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24.—Claimed in part by death and scattered to the four winds, the famous Roosevelt "tennis cabinet," once all-powerful in Washington, becomes, with the departure of Jules Jusserand, ambassador of France, but a memory.

During the vicissitudes which overtook him later in his official life, few persons realized that Truman H. Newberry, of Michigan, was a member of the famous White House organization. He was assistant secretary of navy then, having succeeded to the post occupied but a few years before by T. R. himself, and more recently occupied by the young Col. Roosevelt. President Roosevelt found him a worthy antagonist on the courts.

There has always been a question as to just how well President Roosevelt played the game, but general opinion has it that he was far more strenuous than accurate with the racquet, making up in vim and velocity whatever he lacked in form and generalship. In any event there have never been any afternoons about the White House grounds to equal those when the tennis cabinet was in session.

For the benefit of a new generation and to refresh the memories of those who knew the "cabinet" in its prime it may be well to recall its personnel, together with the positions occupied by its members.

President Roosevelt.

Ambassador Jusserand.

Gifford Pinchot, chief forester.

Robert Bacon, assistant secretary of state.

Lawrence O. Murray, director of the mint.

Archibald W. Butt, military aide.

Truman H. Newberry, assistant secretary of the navy.

James H. Garfield, Commissioner of corporations.

Herbert Knox Smith, assistant commissioner of corporations.

Of the above death has claimed T. R., Robert Bacon, "Archie" Butt, who went down on the Titanic, and Lawrence Murray.

The political fortunes of the survivors have varied. Gifford Pinchot moved on to become governor of his native state of Pennsylvania, and like a true member of the "cabinet" has had a stormy career in the gubernatorial chair.

"Jimmie"Garfield was promoted by President Roosevelt to a real cabinet position as head of the department of commerce and labor but since 1909 has been engaged in the practice of law at Cleveland.

Herbert Knox Smith sought political favor with his "chief" in the ill-fated progressive campaign of 1912, being the candidate of that party for governor of his home state of Connecticut. The candidacy was not a successful one and since that time Mr. Smith has been living quietly at his place in Farmington. He served in the quartermaster's department during the war.

Mr. Newberry's political experiences are too well known to be commented upon here. He, too, saw service in the World War, as did Robert Bacon, who rendered valuable service in France as an aide to General Pershing.

M. Jusserand has for a long while been the only survivor living in Washington. Now he is hauling down the flag.

The famous courts are still there at the White House. But today they lie buried under a heavy blanket of snow and are swept by chill northern breezes. Theirs is a departed glory.

QUESTION SETTLED

SANTA BARBARA, Jan. 24.—A great chronological question to determine if America, being east of the international date line, should celebrate Chinese New Year beginning January 23, twenty-four hours earlier than in China, was permanently settled yesterday by a cablegram from Pekin, setting January 24 as the official day to commence the celebration which lasts for several days. The Santa Barbara colony of Celestials already had the date right, having fixed the 24th several days ago and notified the City Council that they intended to celebrate the day in the old fashioned way. Chinese of San Francisco, Fresno, Los Angeles and other California points could not agree on the date until the cablegram, which came to Kam Fat, mayor of Bakerfield Chinatown, arrived.

U. S. Flyers Shoot At Own Shadow As Target

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 24.—Shooting at one's own shadow may impress the layman as queer practice for the United States army, yet that is exactly what is being done today at Crissy field, in the Presidio. In order to train aerial machine gunners to fire on ground and moving targets, Major Delos G. Emmons, commanding Crissy field, has devised a scheme of conducting this practice while flying over the bay.

Two airplanes are used in the instruction; and, while flying at varying altitudes, the machine gunner of one plane fires at the moving shadow of the other on the water, and the splash of the bullet shows plainly just how well the gunner is shooting. Lewis machine guns, firing bursts of five to 100 shots at a rate of 400 to 500 shots per minute, are used in this exercise.

A COUGH REMEDY WITHOUT OPIATES

Many cough preparations contain some one or more harmful drugs which are added to take the place of opiates. None of these narcotic substitutes have ever been used in FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND. The name of every ingredient is plainly printed on every carton. You know what you are taking when you take Foley's. It clings to the throat. Good for old and young. You have a cough, why not try it. Refuse substitutes.

PREPARE BILL TO PROTECT SCHOOL

Proposed Measures To Aid Southern Branch, Says Assemblyman Weller

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 24.—Three bills will be introduced in the Assembly of the California Legislature, it is announced by Assemblyman Frank C. Weller, Glendale, to protect the interests of the southern branch, University of California building program. Assemblymen Willard Badham, Los Angeles, and Henry Carter, San Pedro, will be other sponsors for the measures which are now being drawn up by the Legislative counsel bureau. The program called for in the bills is as follows:

1—Authorization to sell the present southern branch site to the city of Los Angeles.

2—An appropriation of $250,000 for the purchase of a site or additional acreage in case the branch does not move. This is a tentative figure which may be changed in the last half of the legislative session, Mr. Weller states.

3—An appropriation of $1,000,000 for the erection of new buildings. This also is a tentative figure.

With the city of Burbank hotly contesting Fullerton's claims for location of the university, according to Mr. Weller, and Palos Verdes offering a large tract, it is very probable that early action will be taken by the board of regents. There would then be necessity for having legislation pending to enable them to proceed at once, the assemblyman believes.

HOME BUILDING IS BILL DING'S BIZZ

Recent Arrival In Glendale Joins Bentley Firm And Tells Why

Bill Ding predicts a year of building activity in Glendale. This young man recently established himself with the Bentley Lumber Co., situated at 460 West Los Feliz road.

"I have been in town just a week, and I want to take this opportunity to express my thanks to The Glendale Evening News for the fine things said about me in last Saturday's paper, and pledge myself to the task of helping home builders with their building problems as never before.

Bill Ding's business is "building" business, which he has made his business for many years, in fact, his whole life work is devoted to helping home builders build the home of thei rdreams. Bill is full of good business judgment, and to prove it will deliver frequent messages through the advertising columns of The Glendale Evening News.

"Things started off with a bang," said Bill. "I've had the pleasure of meeting a number of the finest people in your whole city, and world as well. They are home builders. I attended a little shower last night, guess they call it reception in California, but any way it didn't rain, and as we came away from the reception my friend says, 'Come on, Bill, let's go home.' The rascal knew that name sounded good in my ears, for Bill Ding homes is my business.

"I affiliated myself with Bentley Lumber Co. because they are leaders in the Bill Ding business throughout this entire neck of the woods, and I want to tell you about a little heart-to-heart talk I had with a prospect the first day I was in the office. (If Uncle John at KHJ reads this heart-to-heart stuff he will think I picked it off the air since my arrival in Glendale, anyway I didn't). And says this prospect to me:

"'I don't care much about taking a chance. I've taken all the chances the world has got, I guess, and I want no more. I have been looking around to buy, but I want to know my hard-earned savings don't buy cheap material, and workmanship in a home of my own. I want a home that is going to be a safe investment. I know tthe Bentley Lumber Co. handle nothing but quality building material, give good service, guarantee their roofs, lay the best of hardwood floors, and they are dependable building material merchants. I want to inspect your building plans, and maybe have you draw a special plan of my own, which I have been working on for some time.'"

Needless to say, Bill is not only helping this home builder get his plans and specifications, but he has helped him obtain good, honest, reliable workmen to carry out the instruction of the plan. "So you are soon going to see another brand-new home built of dependable Bentley materials," said Bill.
